War Department Gets Story of Officer in Far North

Washington, Aug. 17.—(AP)—A graphic description of how Will Rogers and Wiley Post met their death in an airplane accident near Point Barrow, Alaska, was wirelessly to the War Department today by Staff Sergeant Stanley Morgan, in charge of the army's radio station at that outpost of civilization.

The story, obtained from awe-stricken Eskimos who saw the accident, follows:

"At 10 p. m. last night (Thursday) attracted by a group of excited natives on beach. Walking down, discovered one native all out of breath gasping out in pidgin English a strange tale of 'air-plane she blew up.'

"After repeated questioning learned this native witnessed crash of an airplane at his sealing camp some 15 miles south of Barrow and had run the entire distance to symphon aid.

"Rag on Sore Eye." "Native claimed plane flying very low suddenly appeared from the south apparently sighting tents. Plane then circled several times and finally settled down on small river near camp. Two men climbed out, one wearing 'rag on sore eye' and other 'big man with boots.'

"The big man then called native to water's edge and asked direction and distance to Point Barrow. Direction given, men then climbed back into plane and taxied off to

ROGERS PAID BILLS

San Angelo, Tex., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Will Rogers was paying all the expenses of his vacation flight with Wiley Post to Alaska. A letter from Mrs. Post to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Laine, of San Angelo, disclosed this today, and told, too, that Rogers had dissuaded the flier's wife from making the trip.

"I intended to go to Alaska with them, but for some reason Mr. Rogers didn't want me to go, and after all, he is paying the expenses for the trip and what he said had to go," read the letter the Laines exhibited.

far side of river for take-off into wind.

"After short run plane slowly lifted from water to height about 50 feet banking slightly to right when evidently motor stalled, plane slipped off on right wing and nosed down into water, turning completely over and native claimed dull explosion occurred and most of right wing dropped off and a film of gasoline and oil soon covered the water.

"Calls Unanswered." "Native frightened by explosion turned and ran but soon calmed down and returned, calling loudly 'men in plane. Receiving no answer native then made decision to come to Barrow for help.

"With completion of story we knew plane to be that of Post and Rogers and quickly assembled a crew of 14 Eskimos and departed in open whale boat powered with small gas motor. Hampered by recent ice floes and strong adverse current, took nearly three hours to reach destination.

"Dense fog with semi-darkness gave upturned plane most ghastly appearance and our hearts chilled at thought of what we might find there.

"Twisted Wood and Metal." "As we approached nearer plane we soon realized no human could possibly survive the terrific crash. The plane was but a huge mass of twisted and broken wood and metal.

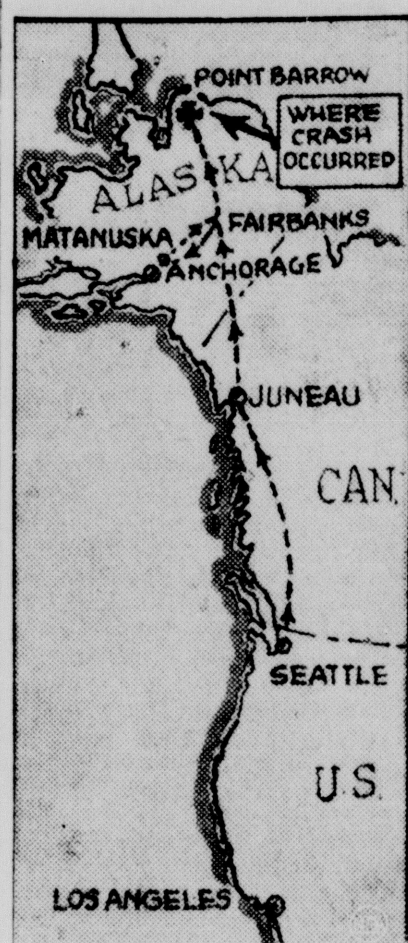

"The natives by this time had managed to cut into the cabin and extricated the body of Rogers who had apparently been well back in the cabin when the plane struck and more or less protected by the baggage carried therein.

"We soon learned we would have a difficult job freeing Post from the wreckage as the plane had struck with such terrific speed it had forced the engine wheel back into the cabin pinning the body of Post securely.

Tore Plane Apart.

"With some little difficulty we managed to tear the plane apart and eventually released the body of Post. Both bodies were then carefully laid and wrapped with

FEDERAL AGENT SHOT BY BANDIT

Had Sought Ohio Thug to Question Him Concerning Auto Theft

College Corner, O., Aug. 17.—(AP)—The government planned an early trial today for George W. Barrett, held as the killer of Federal Agent Nelson B. Klein, 37, in a furious gun battle here last night.

H. D. Harris, acting agent in charge of the Cincinnati office of the bureau of investigation, said Barrett would be brought to trial as "quickly as possible" under the Federal statute imposing the death penalty upon conviction for the slaying of a government officer.

Klein, an agent of the Department of Justice, was seeking Barrett for questioning concerning automobile thefts. They met face to face last night, Donald C. McGovern, another Federal agent, was with Klein.

Beat Agent to Trigger Deputy Sheriff Charles B. Walke said Barrett ran behind a garage wall when Klein approached him. Barrett opened fire from behind the wall, the deputy said, and Klein and McGovern returned it.

Klein fell with six bullets in his body, but his own pistol fire had shattered Barrett's leg bone. Walke said Barrett surrendered with the statement: "I beat him to the trigger. I shot him."

Klein was the fourth Federal agent to fall in the line of duty during the last two years. He lived in Southgate, Ky., across the Ohio river from Cincinnati and is survived by his widow and three children.

House Will Vote on Guffey Bill Monday

Washington, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The key section of the Guffey coal stabilization bill, declaring that the mining of coal has a "direct effect" on interstate commerce, was approved today by the house.

Urged by President Roosevelt to place the soft coal industry under federal control and test the government's powers under the constitution, the measure leans heavily on the theory that congress has power to regulate anything directly affecting interstate commerce.

After approving the bill's statement that coal mining does have such an effect, the house considered various amendments under an agreement to finish action on them today but to postpone the vote on final passage until Monday.

Frank Jewett Died at Franklin Home

(Telegraph Special Service) Franklin Grove, Aug. 17.—The funeral of Frank Jewett, who passed away at his home here at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon will be held at the home at 2:30 Sunday afternoon, with burial in Amboy, where he resided for many years. Obituary will be published later.

ADJOURNMENT OF CONGRESS EARLY NEXT WEEK SEEN

Utilities Bill May Possibly Be Left Over for Next Session

BULLETIN. Washington, Aug. 17.—(AP)—A prediction that congress will adjourn by next Saturday was made today by Speaker Byrnes.

He said he expected a final decision "about what we're going to do" to be made at tomorrow night's White House conference, to which the president has invited house and senate leaders.

The speaker added, at his press conference, that resolutions for adjournment "will probably go in early next week."

Washington, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The Democratic high command concentrated all its efforts today on a drive to adjourn Congress next week. Immediately predictions were heard that several major bills, including the utilities measure for which the administration has fought strenuously, may be scrapped for this session.

Plans for the last-minute rush of business, in which backers of various measures will vie for the attention of Congress, will be discussed at a White House conference between President Roosevelt and congressional leaders Sunday night.

Some leaders were talking of adjournment next Tuesday or Thursday, though most believed the session would last at least until the end of the week.

As some leaders saw the situation, Roosevelt probably would insist that before scattering homeward Congress act on:

Probable "Must" Program 1. The Guffey bill to regulate the bituminous coal industry with a "little NRA". This was debated again in the House today. Its backers, and some of its foes, predicted it would pass that chamber Monday, and the Senate a day or two later. Others said it would lose.

2. The $250,000,000 tax bill, now gone to a Senate-House conference after passing the two chambers in virtually different form.

3. The omnibus banking bill, on which conferees reached an agreement late yesterday.

4. The new Federal alcohol control plan, on which Senate and House conferees have as yet made little progress in smoothing out differences.

Utilities Bill Uncertain 5. A measure, also in Senate-House conference, to prohibit suits for payment of gold or its equivalent on government securities.

One measure mentioned in some quarters as likely to lie over until the next session unless controversy surrounding it is settled swiftly is the utilities bill.

So far Senate and House conferees have been unable to agree on any compromise on the administration's proposal for mandatory abolition of certain utility companies, though they will try again Monday. The Senate passed the bill with this clause in it, the House rejected it.

Brother of Dixon Woman Dead in West

Mrs. Alice Baughman, 1718 Third street, has received word of the death of her brother, Wilson Sturtz, 69, in Los Angeles Thursday. The deceased, a former resident of Rock Falls, had never married and in addition to Mrs. Baughman is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Arthur Emmitt and Mrs. C. A. Ward of Sterling and six brothers, Attorney Charles, Kewanee; Dr. Herman, Iron Mountain, Mich.; Edward, Park Ridge; Roy, Rock Island; Lawrence, Rock Falls and Harry, Detroit, Mich.

Reconciliation of Couple Suspected of Murder Only Result

Chicago, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Investigators seeking a solution to the mystery slaying of Kenneth A. Morrison, 47, Chicago park district executive, were back today at the start after exhausting several possible clues.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Watson and two of their friends, all held for questioning, were released yesterday when police announced nothing appeared to connect them with the shooting of Morrison.

Three youths, held as suspects in an alleged robbery attempt, were eliminated from the slaying quiz after a pistol found in their possession was shown by a ballistics expert to be not the one which

THOMPSON MUST DIE OCTOBER 15 JUDGE DECREES

Rapist-Slayer's Appeal for Another Trial Denied.

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Only a planned appeal to the Supreme Court today stood between Gerald Thompson and death in the electric chair Oct. 15 for the rape-murder of Mildred Hallmark.

Thompson, scheduled to be taken to the Joliet death house within two days, was denied a new trial yesterday by Judge Joseph Daily, who fixed the date for execution of the 25-year-old tool-maker.

Attorney Ren Thurman announced he would appeal the case but his client seemed less interested in the fight to save his life than he was in the "black book" where he recorded 16 attacks on other women and 67 unsuccessful attempts.

Thompson told jailers he wanted to take the diary with him to prison. But State's Attorney E. V. Champion said he would hold the book as long as there was a chance of its being needed as evidence, then would destroy it.

The new trial plea was based on an affidavit in which a fellow employee alleged W. V. Hayes, a juror, expressed an opinion of the case before he was called to serve. Hayes denied the charge.

A jury on July 31 convicted Thompson of killing Miss Hallmark, 19-year-old cafe hostess, the night of June 16 when she resisted an attack.

TO DISBURSE TRIBESMEN.

Simla, India, Aug. 17.—(AP)—British troops and planes were dispatched from here today in an effort to disperse 2,000 tribesmen reported to be concentrated in a threatening manner on the Gandab road in the northwest frontier province.

Further details of the concentration were not available here.

TO CALL ADMINISTRATION MEN IN LOBBY PROBE

Head of Power Commission and White House Secretary Wanted?

Washington, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Howard C. Hopson, millionaire utilities operator, was granted a brief respite today from the questioning he has undergone in Senate and House lobby investigations.

But Monday the directing force behind The Associated Gas & Electric System will be recalled to the stand to continue relating the part he played in the campaign to defeat the Roosevelt utility bill.

Today Chairman O'Connor of the House lobby committee considered summoning an administration official—Frank R. McNinch, chairman of the power commission—to have him tell whether he, as in contrast to Hopson, lobbied for the bill.

Alleged Propaganda Representative Leihbach (R-N. J.) who requested O'Connor to call McNinch, asserted that the power commission had circulated "propaganda" advocating "destruction of holding companies by trying to show that the sale of their securities would not be affected by the Wheeler-Rayburn (utilities) bill."

(The bill as passed by the Senate, provided for mandatory abolition of certain utility holding companies, a provision which the House rejected.)

White House Secretary Another administration figure who may be asked to testify at next week's session is Marvin H. McIntyre, a White House secretary.

Senator Gibson (R-Vt.), a member of the Senate lobby group, said yesterday he would demand that McIntyre be called to explain his presence at a party Wednesday night with B. B. Robinson, Chicago utilities man who acted as Hopson's representative in Washington.

BEAN FEED INTERIOR

Chicago—A campaign to educate farmers against the use of soy beans for fattening hogs was planned by packing house representatives and agricultural experts from five universities. The packers said bean feeding produced porkers of inferior meat to that of corn fed hogs.

FRAGTURED SKULL FATAL

Chicago—Raymond Hilliard, 30, of Verona, died of a fractured skull suffered Sunday while driving.

Fish Is Fooled

Binghamton, N. Y., Aug. 17.—The large right toe of Miss Zena Brown, a vacationist, was bitten off while she was swimming. Colonel Elmer E. Johnson who rushed her 14 miles to medical aid, said he believed a bass, pickerel or a snapping turtle was attracted by red paint on the toenail.

CHICAGOAN BARR-ED FROM TRADE

Thomas Howell Prohibited From Trading on Any Grain Exchange

Washington, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The Grain Futures Commission today barred Thomas M. Howell, member of the Chicago Board of Trade, from trading privileges in all contract markets in the United States beginning Sept. 15.

Howell was found guilty of having violated the grain futures act by attempting to manipulate the price of grain and by concealing his transactions in the market by making false reports and by failing to report.

He was accused of attempting to manipulate the price of corn in violation of the law in the summer of 1931.

Government attorneys, in a hearing before the commission in June, charged that through the purchase of almost 9,000,000 bushels of July futures in 1931, Howell caused an increase in price of 14 cents a bushel.

Must Report Deals The law requires that a trader must report to the grain futures administration the purchase of 500,000 or more bushels of corn in any one future.

Purchase of 5,000,000 or more bushels, officials said, would result in an investigation by the business conduct committee of the Chicago Board of Trade.

Attorneys contended that Howell bought under his own name a total of 4,985,000 bushels of July futures, and through accounts in the names of members of his family and friends, purchased amounts of less than 500,000 bushels until his holdings totalled almost 9,000,000 bushels.

This, it was said, gave Howell a corner on the market.

APPEAL IS PLANNED

Chicago, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Attorney Sidney S. Gorham, representing Thomas M. Howell, today said his client would appeal immediately from a grain commission ruling barring him from trading privileges.

"There is no basis in the grain futures act for the action of the commission," Gorham declared. "We will take the case to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals and are confident the court will uphold us in our belief the decision against Mr. Howell was wrong."

Identify Slain Man as British Reporter

Kalgan, Inner Mongolia, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Emisaries sent to Paochang to identify the body of a slain white man telephoned today he was Gareth Jones, kidnapped British journalist and one-time secretary to David Lloyd George.

The man, shot to death, was found four days ago near Paochang. Some authorities believed his captors slew him because they suspected treachery from those who sought to ransom him.

The emissaries, however, said they had been informed that Jones, in ill health, had proved a hindrance to his bandit captors and that they had shot him to rid themselves of his care.

(A spokesman at the British embassy at Peking stated that strong representations were being made to the national government in connection with Jones' slaying.)

Finish Inquest in Mutilation Murder

Chicago, Aug. 17.—(AP)—A coroner's jury today completed its inquest into the mutilation slaying of Dr. Walter J. Brauer by returning a verdict of concurrence with the grand jury, which indicted Mandeville W. Zenge on a charge of murder.

No new testimony or evidence was introduced.

Zenge, 25-year-old carpenter of Canton, Mo., is in the county jail awaiting trial for the slaying of Dr. Brauer, osteopath, who married Zenge's former sweetheart. The trial is set for September 9, but a new date is expected to be set at that time.

PLANE BRINGS ROGERS, POST OUT OF NORTH

Joe Crosson, Friend of Dead Aviator, is at Controls

BULLETIN (Copyright 1935, by The Associated Press)

Fairbanks, Alaska, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The first lap of his sorrowful mission ended, Pilot Joe Crosson brought his plane with the bodies of Will Rogers and Wiley Post to Fairbanks at 7:45 A. M. (Alaska Time) today from Barrow, Alaska.

Crosson, veteran of hundreds of Alaskan flights and close friends of the two, landed his pontoon-equipped plane on the Chena river, fronting the city. He had left the bleak and barren Arctic outpost four and a half hours earlier.

The crowd lining the banks of the river, remembering it was Post's similarly pontoon-equipped plane which had crashed and brought death to the two near Barrow on Thursday night, breathed relief as Crosson set his plane down on the water, carefully.

He taxied to a landing. Members of the Fairbanks mortuary staff took the broken bodies of the two men from the plane to their establishment.

Point Barrow, Alaska, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The bodies of Will Rogers and Wiley Post were started for home today in a plane piloted by Joe Crosson, veteran northland pilot.

Crosson took off for Fairbanks, five hours southward, at 3 A. M.

WIDOW ALTERS PLANS

Ponca City, Okla., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Mrs. Wiley Post abandoned today her plans to fly to Seattle to meet the body of her flier husband, killed with Will Rogers in an Alaskan crash.

Instead, the widow of the intrepid flier will rest here today, going to the farm home of Post's parents near Mayville tomorrow there to await the body of the man she married after an aerial elopement.

Pacific Standard time (5 A. M. Central Standard time).

Carefully laid away in the cabin were the bodies of the two internationally famous, who were crushed to death Thursday when their airplane nosed over shortly after a takeoff from Refuge Bay, 15 miles south of here.

Post, the aviator, was Crosson's friend. The round-the-world flier had met the Alaska Airways pilot at Fairbanks, when Post stopped there on one of his two globe-circling hops.

Fairbanks First Stop Fairbanks was the first stop en route to Seattle. The exact time of arrival in Seattle was not announced.

The dozen white settlers of Point Barrow and a crowd of natives gathered on the bleak Arctic shore as the bodies, wrapped in white linen, were placed in the ship.

Farewell honors were accorded the humorist and his aviator friend and companion.

Fifteen miles south of the tundra of Point Barrow, other Eskimos salvaged for their own use the scattered fragments of Post's red monoplane in which the actor humorist and the famous flier plunged to their deaths in a fog on their way here from Fairbanks.

Dr. Henry W. Greist, surgeon at the Presbyterian Mission hospital, who saw the Eskimos at work, said that shortly there would be little left save the torn tundra to mark the spot where Rogers and Post died during their "pleasure jaunt" through Alaska.

Flew Through Fog Crosson, Post's Alaskan friend and an aviator too, and Robert Gleason, a radio operator, flew over the Endicott mountains and through fog across the tundra wastes yesterday to take the bodies back to civilization.

It was Crosson, veteran of unnumbered Alaskan flights, who bade them goodbye at Fairbanks and warned them against the hazards of the fog at Point Barrow.

The broken remains of Post and Rogers, whose names were known throughout the world, lay in a warehouse behind the Presbyterian Mission hospital at Barrow on the ice-strewn Arctic shore after Dr. Greist, the mission surgeon,

South Bend Street Car Traffic Strike-Bound

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 17.—(AP)—A strike by employees of the Northern Indiana Railways, Inc., caused a suspension of street car service in South Bend and Mishawaka today and tied up bus service between these cities and the neighboring cities of Elkhart, Ind., and Niles, Mich.

R. R. Smith, receiver for the railway company, said only 50 of the 200 car and bus operators in the company's employ went on strike but he declared all service was suspended to prevent possible violence.

Representatives of the carmen's union declare the company violated an agreement which ended a similar strike in June, 1934. They contend Leo Scheler, a street car operator, was dismissed because of his union affiliation. Company officials declare he was discharged for inefficiency.

Counties Are Told
They Must Assume Relief Activities

Chicago, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Illinois counties today were notified by the Emergency Relief Commission that they are expected to take over the relief cases heretofore handled by townships.

Wilfred S. Reynolds, commission secretary, wrote county emergency relief chairmen:

"It is of immediate and utmost importance that the county emergency relief committee confer with the county board of supervisors to the end that when the new county tax levy is determined, full and sufficient provision be made for as large a share of local relief needs as the county can reasonably expect to carry."

Action of the commission followed an opinion by the attorney general holding that recent legislation transferred responsibility for providing poor relief funds from townships to counties.

Latest Albanian Revolution Suppressed

Tirana, Albania, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The government announced today that Albania's latest "revolution," an abortive uprising attempted by 35 police and a few civilians, had been completely suppressed.

Gen. Leon de Gagliardi, Inspector of the army, whose assassination was the first blow by the rebels, was said to have been the only person to lose his life.

He was slain from ambush as he motored near Pleri, without realizing that another of the nation's little insurrections was under way, the official press bureau said.

Most of the rebels were arrested; the rest fled to the hills.

Reports that an attempt was made on the life of King Zog were described as "absolutely untrue and fantastic."

Roosevelt Helps His Son Celebrate Today

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 17.—(AP)—President Roosevelt set aside this afternoon for a family reunion celebrating the twenty-first birthday of Franklin Jr., third son.

For this occasion he left the busy capital for a brief visit at home and for the day the cares of state were put aside as far as is possible for the president of the United States.

Detailed plans for the quiet family get-together were not revealed but it was understood the plans of Mrs. Roosevelt called for a picnic lunch at the cottage about a mile across the fields from the Hudson river home.

There has been erected there for some time a brick fireplace in the open; a cottage and a new outdoor swimming pool in which the president enjoys plunges.

Clipper Completes Un-

Chartered Course Today

Wake Island, Aug. 17.—(AP)—By Pan American Radio—Pan American Airways Clipper flying boat rested on the waters of Wake lagoon today, 4,992 miles from the United States' shores, with another pioneering record chalked up on her log.

The big plane alighted here at 12:25 P. M. today (7:25 P. M. Friday Central Standard time) completing a flight of 1,191 miles from Midway island that took it over a previously uncharted air course. The trip required eight hours and four minutes.

Italy Claims to Have

Million Under Arms

Rome, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini's newspaper today claimed for Italy an army of a million men, the strongest in Europe.

Gaetano Polverelli, former head of the government press bureau, in a front page article in Il Duce's organ, Popolo d'Italia, placed the number of soldiers under arms at 1,000,000 following recent mobilization and said:

"This powerful instrument x x x is destined to face the colonial necessities and the uncertainties of the Ethiopian situation. Both materially and morally it is perfectly ready."

AMENDMENT REJECTED

Washington, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The House today rejected Senate amendments to the bill barring suits on government gold clause securities and sent the measure to conference with a Senate committee in an effort to adjust differences.

The House voted to bar any further suits for payment in gold upon enactment of the bill. The Senate decided to forbid them after six months.

NEBRASKA EDITOR DEAD

Ord, Neb., Aug. 17.—(AP)—W. W. Haskell, 79, pioneer Nebraska newspaper publisher, died today at his home here after a long illness.

He came here from Illinois in 1881 and founded the Quix a few weeks later. He retired in 1917 after a career of stormy crusading for prohibition and other reforms.

Plane Brings—

and Charles Brower, grizzled "King of the Arctic," prepared them for the journey home.

Brower was the man whom Rogers said he was flying to Barrow to visit. For 51 years, Brower has operated a whaling station and trading post on the lonely, northernmost tip of Alaska.

Plane In Fragments

Posts' pontoon equipped ship, in which the celebrated little Oklahoma globe girder and the world famous actor, humorist and philosopher were on a leisurely vacation jaunt, lay in fragments on the banks of a shallow stream 15 miles south of here.

The terrific impact as the ship fell in the beginning of a spin, just after takeoff, so mutilated it that it appeared doubtful the exact cause of the crash would ever be determined.

Eskimos with whom Post talked after landing to get directions to Point Barrow, said the ship lifted 50 or 60 feet into the air and the 350-horsepower motor misfired.

The plane fell off on one wing, then ploughed nose first into the tundra. A wing struck the ground and ripped off, the pontoons tore into the earth and the heavy motor broke from its supports and jammed back upon the flier and his companion.

Said Plane "Blew Up"

An Eskimo, breathless from 15 miles of running across the tundra, brought the first word of the wreck to Barrow.

"Red plane blow up. Two men dead," the Eskimo mumbled to Staff Sergeant Stanley R. Morgan, United States Signal Corps wireless operator.

Hastily mustering a party, Morgan engaged a fast motorboat and set out in the gathering darkness for Waikepi, a tiny native settlement at Refuge Inlet where the tragedy occurred. His journey was slowed by floe ice.

Eskimos already had removed Rogers' body from the wreckage, but the sergeant had to use ropes to pull the shattered plane apart before Post's body could be lifted from beneath the motor in two feet of icy water.

The bodies and personal effects taken from the plane were placed in a native skin boat and towed to Barrow.

Flashed Word to U. S.

Sergeant Morgan flashed the word by wireless to Col. George E. Kumpe, in charge of the Alaska telegraph system headquarters operated by the Signal Corps, in Seattle.

The Signal Corps notified Mrs. Post in Ponca City, Okla., and the Rogers family in Skokhegan, Me.

"I wish to God I had been with him when he crashed," Mrs. Post cried when she learned of her husband's death.

It was only through a last minute decision, prompted by the jesting of Rogers and her husband, who said the trip was not one for a woman to take, that Mrs. Post stood by the plane and waved goodbye to the travelers when they took off Aug. 1 from Renton airport on Lake Washington for Juneau.

The Rogers family was stunned. Mrs. Rogers said she would start for California with her daughter, Mary Rogers, 19. Will Rogers, Jr., was in California, but headed east by plane. The other son, James, already was in the east.

Had Planned Flight

At Oklahoma City Harry Fredrickson, oil man friend of Post, disclosed the two were planning to fly over much of the world in a carefree two months trip. From Alaska they had intended to fly across to Siberia, down the China coast and into Russia.

News of the tragedy shocked the nation.

Rogers was making his first visit to the northland, while Post had been in Alaska three times, twice on globe-girdling flights and later on a hunting trip.

FAMILY HIDES GRIEF

New York, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Mrs. Will Rogers and her daughter Mary arrived in New York today after a hurried trip from Maine enroute to their California home to lay to rest the remains of husband and father.

With Dorothy Stone, daughter of actor Fred Stone, an intimate of the dead comedian, the Rogers motored into the city from Stamford where they left the train which had brought them from Oakland, Me.

Here, in New York, or a suburb, they went into seclusion, avoiding the public gaze and—friends said—hiding their grief even from persons closest to them. They will await the arrival of the eldest son of the philosopher-humorist, Will, Jr., arriving by airplane tonight from the west coast, before completing plans for the trip of Santa Monica.

At the hotel where Jimmy Rogers, another son, was still registered today, it was said he had not returned.

Yesterday, when word was received that his father had died in an airplane crash, he left immediately for an unannounced destination. It was assumed he had joined his mother and sister. With them too was Miss Theda Blake, sister of Mrs. Rogers.

A BLANK PAGE?

By Joseph Ford Newton

IN the Letters of Lord Oxford, just off the press, there is a delightful story of Queen Victoria and Disraeli, her favorite Prime Minister; and it has a rather sharp point to it, too.

The Queen complained that Gladstone talked to her as if he were addressing an audience. But Disraeli was different—a man of great charm, he talked to her as to a woman. She liked it.

"What is your real religion?" asked the Queen one day, knowing that Disraeli was a Jew belonging to the Church of England. "Madam," he replied, "I am the blank page between the Old Testament and the New."

What that enigmatic man meant by his cryptic reply need not detain us, except to remind us that there are many about us whose religion, in one way or another, is of the same variety.

They are betwixt and between, having left behind what to them are the crudities of the old, but they have not advanced to any new faith. Their God is not Jehovah, nor is He the great All-Father.

They can tell you glibly enough what they do not believe, but not what they believe. They are critical of the inadequate, scornful of the obsolete, and doubtful of the antique—but there they stop.

The President of Harvard University began a recent sermon by saying: "I shall attempt no excursion into the field of religious belief; that is not the function of a sermon in this college in the twentieth century!" No wonder his text was, "O ye of little faith."

If a sermon is not a religious discourse, pray what is it? Some of us have the thought that that is what a sermon really is. If not, for the purpose for which it exists it is just a blank page.

Why be so shy about the real things of life, as if the twentieth century had altered basic facts? One of the main troubles with the world today is that so many have a blank page where faith ought to be.

If the page is blank, it is certainly time to write something on it to give life meaning and music and high purpose!

Brewer-Kuhn Wedding Announced

Announcement was made Thursday of the marriage of Miss Hazel Brewer of Amboy to Charles Kuhn of Tampico at Morrison Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 6. They were attended by Mrs. James Manspeaker of Morrison and Edward Kuhn of Morrison, a brother of the groom. Following the ceremony they went on a wedding trip through northern Wisconsin.

Mrs. Kuhn has been employed at the hospital in Amboy and will continue her work there until September first. For the past year and a half Mr. Kuhn has been employed as mechanic in the Pederson garage. Their friends in Tampico and Amboy extend them congratulations and good wishes.

Bethel Missionary Society Meeting

The meeting of the Bethel Missionary Society of Bethel church was held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. J. C. Jeanguenot with a good attendance. Mrs. Irene Gaul and Mrs. John Nelson assisted Mrs. Jeanguenot in entertaining.

All joined heartily in several songs at the opening of the program, and the devotions were led by Mrs. Irene Gaul, and a number of members offered prayer.

Mrs. Dora Hess presented in an interesting manner the topic on "The Challenge of an Open Door," or "Black Magic" in the land of Africa.

Slowly and steadily the black superstitions are being broken down by the marvelous light of the gospel of Jesus Christ. Robert S. Roseberry is the author of the above subject and is a leading missionary in the west African field.

The workers have met with many conflicts and triumphs among the natives and after mastering their languages, have made permanent headway with God's program and given the living and eternal word of God and Jesus Christ as their Savior to them, to which many have responded.

Mrs. Hess then closed her talk with this beautiful little poem:

"There's a wide and open door
In the whole wide world today;
God is working everywhere,
Let us work while still we may.
Walls are falling all around,
God is marching on before;
Let us follow where He leads,
Into every open door.

The president then led in prayer and conducted a lively business session, including the paying of dues and special offerings for different items of work.

The meeting then closed with all repeating the Mizzpah; after which a social period with the serving of dainty refreshments by the hostesses, was enjoyed before the departure of the guests.

Meeting of Dixon Household Science Club on Thursday

The Dixon Household Science Club met at the home of Mrs. Eva Murray, Thursday afternoon, and after the president called the meeting to order, all sang "Brighten the Corner Where You Are."

Gladys Murray gave a reading, "Just One Reason."

A song, "Swinging," by Loretta Murray, followed.

A duet "When Its Night Time in Nevada" was given by Loretta and Beulah Murray.

An exceptional quilt demonstration was given by Mrs. Eva Murray.

An unusual fruit contest was won by Mrs. Ida Mundorf. The consolation prize went to Mrs. Lydia Clymer.

Three visitors were present. During the social hour delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

As the guests left for their respective homes they voted Mrs. Murray a charming hostess.

Ann Goldthorpe of Milledgeville to Wed

Announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Ann Goldthorpe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Goldthorpe of Milledgeville, and Arthur Mennen of Broadhead, Wis., was made at a garden party Wednesday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Erickson in Milledgeville. The wedding will take place in New York City next Wednesday.

Hostesses at the garden party were Meses R. K. Goldthorpe and George Yingling and the Misses Muriel and Grace Goldthorpe.

RETURN FROM TRIP TO WHEELING, W. VA.—

Last evening W. A. Guynn and Mr. and Mrs. Monte Weeks returned from a delightful vacation motor trip to Wheeling, W. Virginia. They enjoyed trips over to Pennsylvania and through the mountains, enjoying the trip especially to Mt. Summit. Mrs. Weeks, secretary to J. G. Ralston, of the Reynolds Wire Co., has been enjoying a week of her vacation.

Sight of Too Much Food Can Kill a Person's Appetite

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Tom eats like a pig, but Billy won't eat at all," worried Mrs. Brown. "Honestly, I don't know what the child lives on."

The doctor looked Billy over and asked some questions. Finally, he took a sample of Billy's blood by painless methods, and some other specimens. The boy was a bit underweight for his height, but then he was very tall for his age.

"He seems as fit as a fiddle to me," he announced finally, "but I'll give you a better report Wednesday if you can come in. No, I won't need Billy again. Go home and play and have a good time, lad. You are as sound as a nut."

On Wednesday the test reports from the laboratory were good—excellent. The chemistry of the blood was balanced and showed no increased defense against toxins of any sort. Calcium and so on were all right. No sugar or other signs of kidney trouble.

"Then what is it, doctor?"

Digestive Efficiency
"Well—a number of things. Very possibly he has a digestive system that absorbs one hundred per cent nourishment out of everything he does eat. Very possibly, too, he was born to be tall and thin and never will weigh what is considered standard. He's as straight as a gun-rod and his eyes are sparkling and clear. If he was ill he would show signs of perpetual fatigue, be nervous and cross and either be too sleepy or not sleepy enough."

"But why does Tom eat so much?"

"Tell me, what do you have for a regular meal—say, dinner in the evening?" The doctor's eyes swept over Mrs. Brown's thick figure and her very heavy arm.

"I set a good table, Doctor," she retorted, misunderstanding him. "I have good thick cuts of meat—Charles, my husband, likes pot-roast with thick tomato sauce, or steak smothered in onions. And potatoes, two or three vegetables, and biscuit or rolls and a couple of kinds of jam and pickles or relish. Then always dessert. Roly-poly or pie or raisin-and-rice pudding. Oh, yes, there's always a big dish of fruit somewhere, too. I will say that about Billy. He does eat fruit."

About Mountainous Meals

The doctor sighed. He had a short appetite himself. "Mrs. Brown," he said, "don't be offended, but if I had to sit down to a table like that I'd feel as though some one had asked me to move Pike's Peak with a spoon. Perhaps Billy won't eat because he sees TOO MUCH food."

"You might try giving him an early supper if it isn't too much trouble. Where he sees only some milk and eggs and bread and butter and fruit, or some small portions of vegetables and meat. Sort of slip up on him. I mean, and see if sight won't help appetite. He ought to eat—that's sure, but maybe your idea of appetite and mine are different."

Little Jon Lindbergh Is Three

North Haven, Me., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Little Jon Lindbergh had a birthday party Friday in the guarded privacy of his grandmother's summer estate on this island in Penobscot Bay. He was 3 years old. His father and mother, Col. Chas. A. and Anne Morrow Lindbergh were at the party; so was his aunt, mother, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, Constance Morrow, and his grandmother, Mrs. Dwight Morrow, widow of the U. S. Senator from New Jersey.

C. Walgreens Take Trip on New Boat

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walgreen, whose summer home is Hazelwood, Dixon, have purchased a new boat, and they say the name of the craft is the "Dixonian." However, they are enjoying a vacation leaving the City by the Lake far behind, and are due in Brooklyn, N. Y., soon. They expect to spend some time in New York City.

TO LEAVE IN MORNING ON VACATION—

Mr. and Mrs. John Krug and sons Robert and William, are leaving by motor Sunday morning on a vacation trip to the Ozark Mountains, expecting to be gone a week. On their return they expect to come by way of Springfield and they will probably visit the State Fair.

Mrs. Hattie Olds has returned from a visit of ten days with her sisters in Mt. Carroll.

Lotus Beds In Illinois Blooming

Natural flowering lotus beds at Grass Lake, one of the three places in the world where they grow, should remain in bloom through August and the first two weeks of September.

The lotus in bloom is a sight that will repay car owners who make the trip there. Famed through the ages in legend and song, it really is a giant water lily. The beautiful cream-colored flowers give off a deep, exotic perfume that pervades the entire area, and lift themselves just above a sea of large green leaves.

Japan and Egypt possess the only other natural beds in the world, according to horticulturists. In rare instances the lotus has been transplanted successfully, but the Grass Lake beds are said by authorities to be natural. They bear marked resemblance to the Egyptian lotus, but how they originated in Illinois is a deep mystery.

Every year after a summer sun has warmed the shallow waters of Grass Lake, the lotus grows afresh from the muddy bottom to rear its leaves and buds above the water and burst into gorgeous bloom. In former years it blossomed from about August 15 to the middle of September.

For Men's Suits, A Deep Blush Grey

London.—(AP)—The fashion color for men's fall and winter suitings is a deep blush grey, after which come dull greens and browns in various shades.

Gray no longer holds the field alone for winter wear, though it is again popular.

Striped worsteds predominate for suitings, and the novel moderate buried cloths also are being favored.

Plain cut overcoats of Shetland are in gray, blue and gray, and brown and gray.

Herringbone and check patterned suitings are colorful. Some of them are in hard colors.

WILL LEAVE MONDAY FOR ROCKY MOUNTAINS—

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Durkes and son Richard, and Harry Lazier, will leave Monday for the Rocky Mountains and other western points on an automobile trip. They will stop in Omaha enroute where "Dick" will see the qualifying rounds of the National Open golf tournament. Returning they will visit the Black Hills.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

"OFF-NOTE" ROOM POPULAR IN DECORATING THE HOME

A vogue in decorating is to have one "period" room in a house or apartment which otherwise scintillates with chromium plating and glass, or to have one modern room when the rest of the house is furnished in the style of a hundred years ago.

This practical idea was started by brides who received wedding gifts of antique furniture or Georgian china as well as modern glass or chromium finished articles. It also satisfies the love for what is old and beautiful as well as for that which is modern and chic in decoration.

Leftover cooked meat, fish, fowl or vegetables can be added to regular scrambled eggs and developed into a rather "fancy" food. Good for luncheon or supper.

When cooking cauliflower, cabbage or onions tie the cheese cloth tightly around the cover of your cooking tin and the odor will be absorbed.

A TIP ON HEALTH

It is considered more healthful to roast vegetables when possible, such as potatoes for example, than to boil them. The salts are removed by boiling.

Six glasses of water should be consumed daily. Some women who want to look beautiful and who have little time to render beauty its demands, will do as well to drink plenty of water as to dash an astringent over the face.

SPOTS, STAINS DISAPPEAR WITH THIS CLEANING MAGIC

Bloodstains may be removed from cloth by soaking 30 minutes in lukewarm water and then washing in warm water and soap suds. Hot water will set the stains, so handle carefully.

To remove syrup or sticky sugary stains, soak in hot water and then wash in soap and warm water. Cover grease stained cloth with a mild soap, and let it stand 24 hours. Wash out with warm water and soap egg yolk stains. Soak and then rub with warm water and soap suds.

Tar stains may be removed by rubbing the stain with lard. Roll the cloth and let it stand 12 hours or longer. Then wash out with warm water and suds.

Crowds Attending the Horse Show

The Farm and Horse Show, sponsored by the Dixon Saddle Club, is having the initial showing for 1935 at High School Athletic Field this afternoon.

A large crowd of the lovers of fine horses, and other highly bred animals, are seeking admission at the gates, and it looks as if the attendance would rival that of former years.

Many smart gowns and hats, in gay summer colors war for supremacy with the more sober, yet fascinating autumn styles, worn by a few girls and women who do not mind Old Sol's ardent access.

The bleachers and grand stands are rapidly filling, as the Dixon Municipal Band breaks into sprightly music.

Riders from Dixon, Oregon, Rockford, Sterling, Ashton, etc., etc., are to be seen at the paddocks, both men and women and girls and boys.

The Dixon Horse Show has come to be an institution in this city. In the shelters are cows, and pigs and sheep of aristocratic lineage, or what means the same thing, in their world.

Pleasantly Surprise Newlyweds Tuesday

On Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Marion Utz were pleasantly surprised when a group of relatives and friends gathered at their home in honor of their recent marriage. Mrs. Utz was formerly Miss Ruth Lengel.

Bunco was played during the evening. Those receiving prizes were Elizabeth Healy and Howard Hawkins, and Mildred Malarkey and Walter Lengel.

Afterwards the guests of honor were presented with useful and beautiful gifts for their home. The happy affair was planned by Anna Malarkey. During the evening ice cream and cake were served, and at a late hour the guests left for their homes extending best wishes for happiness.

LADIES OF G. A. R. TO MEET MONDAY EVENING—

SPENT SEVERAL DAYS IN SPRINGFIELD—

Attorney and Mrs. Gerald Jones spent several days in Springfield this week, where he went on business.

A MAIDEN'S VOW

By Helen Welshimer

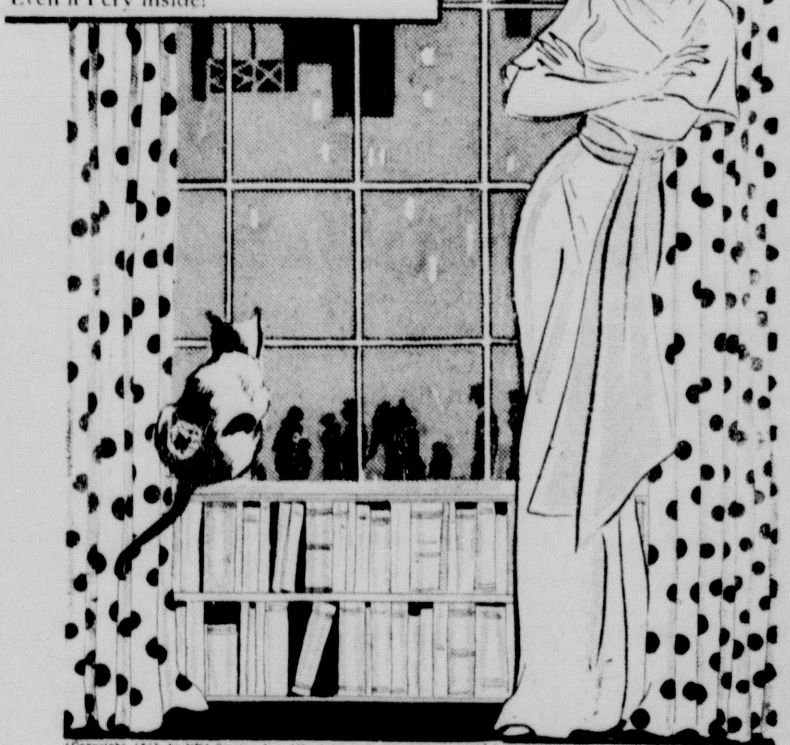

ONLY one thing I have vowed:
I'll not search the passing crowd

For your face, and if I hear
Sudden laughter, strangely near

I won't loiter, you won't see
That it's still too dear to me.

If broad shoulders, rough-edged hair
Loom before me anywhere

I'll walk on, head high in pride,
Even if I cry inside!

Plain Menus Requiring Little Energy

By MARY E. DAGUE

NEA Service Staff Writer

The "dog days" are upon us, and, to keep from wilting completely, I've planned some menus that can be prepared with the least possible heat and energy.

Picnic and porch meals add to the enjoyment of dining at this time and the cooling, comfortable meals go far to make the heat bearable for both the cook and the rest of the family.

Veal is a good summer meat, so I'm planning the dinner around veal birds. These are made up ready for baking and kept in the ice box until time to cook them.

For a first course, try a tomato soup frozen in the tray of an automatic refrigerator and prepared early in the day.

Corn is king for August meals, so why not serve a great platter of corn-on-the-cob with the veal birds for a fine feast?

Serve Salad Chiffonade

A salad chiffonade supplies vegetables in abundance and does away with the necessity of serving another vegetable with the corn. Add one-half cup each diced cooked carrots, diced cooked beets, cooked peas, 1 diced hard cooked egg and 1-2 teaspoon made mustard to French dressing and pour over Boston head lettuce leaves arranged in a well chilled salad bowl. Mix with two wooden forks, lifting the leaves lightly.

For dessert use a strawberry ice box pie. My own family like it immensely and I enjoy making it.

ny variety of berries can be used but the ever-bearing plants make it possible to find strawberries in market until frost.

Strawberry Ice Box Pie

One quart strawberries, 1 3-4 cups boiling water, 1 package of strawberry flavored gelatin, 12 graham crackers, 3 tablespoons of powdered sugar, and 4 tablespoons butter.

Wash and hull berries. Pour the boiling water over gelatin and stir until dissolved. Let stand till cool and then chill until slightly thickened.

Crush crackers very fine and add butter and sugar. Mix thoroughly and pat firmly to sides of a well buttered pie dish. Chill.

When gelatin is slightly thickened, pour over berries arranged in chilled pie crusts. Put in refrigerator until chilled and set. Serve with or without a topping of whipped cream slightly sweetened and flavored with vanilla.

This dessert is not overly sweet. If a sweeter pie is liked try this recipe for sunshine pie.

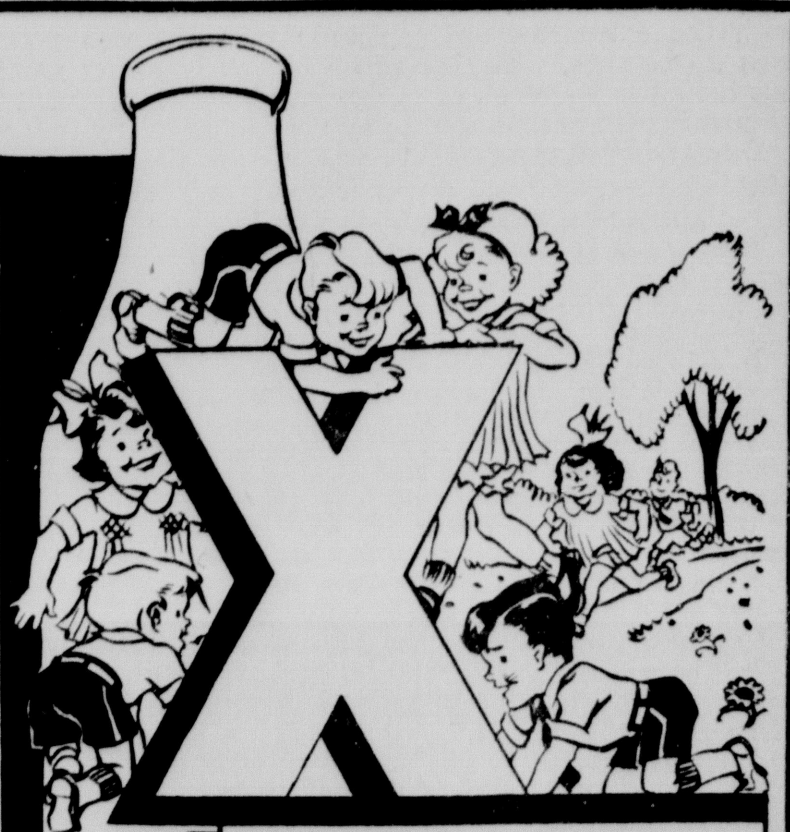

Sunshine Pie
One quart berries, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup water, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, few grains salt, baked pie shell or graham cracker pie shell.

Cook sugar, water and 1 cup of berries fifteen or twenty minutes and rub through a sieve. Make a smooth paste of cornstarch and 1-3 cup cold water. Stir into berry puree and cook and stir until thick and clear. Pour hot over remaining berries and chill. Put into a prepared or baked pie shell when ready to serve and cover with whipped cream.

Play for Trophy To Start Monday

The play for the president's trophy for the lady golfers of the Dixon Country Club will begin on Monday, Aug. 19, with 54 holes against bogey, with two numbers drawn out. The 54 holes must be played by Saturday, Aug. 31.

WORDS, WORDS, WORDS—WASTE

Now comes the flow of propaganda out of somebody's new Washington bureau for electrification of farms. It appears that about the first thing a Washington bureau gets is a press agent, who proceeds to try to justify the existence of his chief.

The first installment that came to our notice told about an Ohio farm woman who refused to move from an electrified farm to one that was not electrified. Of course, the press agent backed her up in her position. There are about 5 million farm wives in the United States, but a case for electrification is made out upon the action of this woman in Ohio.

We will set one case beside it. We know two young men who were left a good farm by their parents. They electrified it and modernized it—but they don't live there any more. An insurance company lives there now.

Our point is that one story offsets the other and neither proves anything.

Yet they are spending your money for this deluge of words in support of money already allotted to Tugwell or somebody else for his venture into making life more abundant for the farmers. That stuff not only takes a press agent to write it, but it takes paper and envelopes and adds to the post office deficit. There seems to be no end to such waste in Washington.

We should like to see every farmhouse electric lighted, electric powered, bathtubbed and kitchen-sinked, and the time may come when we may. Right now, however, there is hardly a farm in the corn belt, where the best farms are, that is not in need of expenditures of a thousand dollars or more for roofs and foundations and paint for buildings, besides the reconstruction of main buildings that long has been postponed. All this should come ahead of electrification.

Illinois is not a poverty-stricken state, as farming goes, but statistics of the county agent of one county disclose that within his jurisdiction are 1800 farmhouses without bathtubs, 800 without kitchen sinks, 700 without washing machines of any kind. Persons who have felt the necessity of getting along without these commonplace conveniences are expected to install water system, power machinery, electric refrigerators, and other outfits to consume electricity, about which a certain group in Washington seems to have gone mad.

Perhaps you can figure it out. We can't.

AGAIN CRIME REVEALS WHAT A "SAP" IT IS!

A pair of young men from Peekskill, N. Y., set out the other day to become underworld big shots.

They equipped themselves with a revolver, bummed a ride from a gas station attendant, shot him to death, and set out for New York City in his car, stopping briefly en route to give a ride to two comely blondes. Reaching the metropolis and having no funds, they tried to pry open the auto's trunk to find something they could pawn. A policeman saw them, became suspicious, and ran them in.

Now they await trial for first degree murder, and there are no dissenting voices to the district attorney's comment that they are "just a couple of saps." Instead of becoming big shots, they will in all probability provide a double workout for the electric chair at Sing Sing, some frosty morning a few months hence; and once more they provoke one to repeat the old, time-stained adage—"crime does not pay."

For quite a time that saying sounded a little bit hollow, in this country. Any would-be gangster who began with the extraordinary ineptitude of these two young men, to be sure, was playing an obviously losing game; but the cities were full of prosperous men who seemed to be proving that crime could pay very handsomely indeed, and in the background there was always the oily figure of Al Capone, who had a winter home in Florida and enjoyed contacts with some highly respected citizens.

So, for a long time, it was impossible to assure young men that crime was a losing proposition without feeling an uncomfortable suspicion that maybe you were talking nonsense. Maybe it did pay, after all, if you went at it right.

But you can never form a correct judgment by a casual glance at the passing scene. It takes years for things to work themselves out, sometimes. If you look around today, you will discover that what is true for the witless young hoodlums from Peekskill has also been true for the big shots—it has been a losing game, with the house enjoying an unbeatable percentage.

Where are they, anyway, those successful criminals of a few years ago? Some of them are dead, and most of the rest of them are in prison. A very few are still a jump or two ahead of the law; but in general it is perfectly obvious that the rackets they thought so secure and lucrative led them, in the end, to disaster.

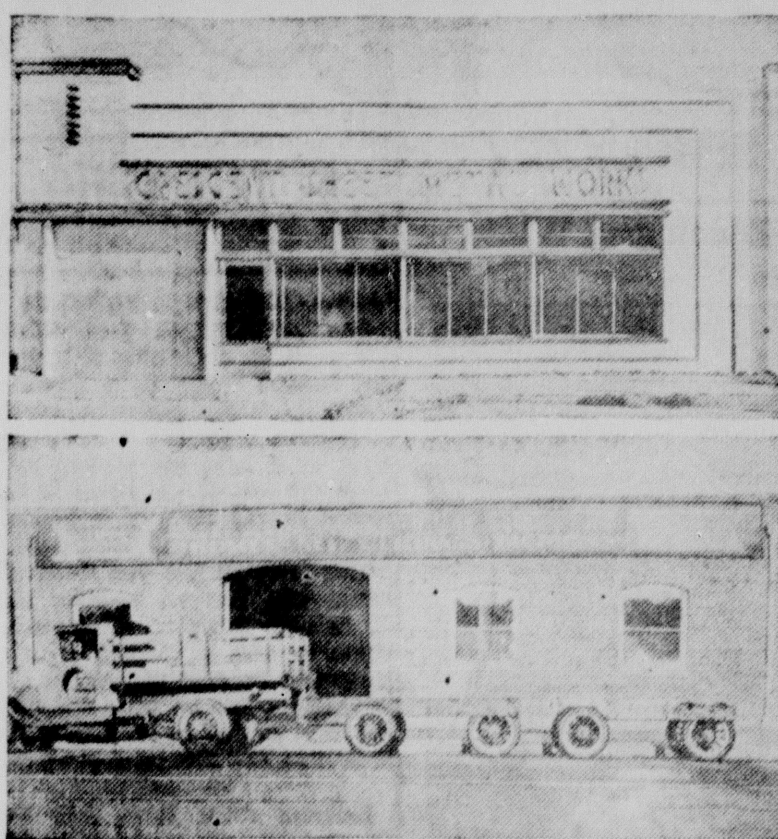

For in the long run, the road of crime can have but one ending. If you are a dumb cluck like this pair from Peekskill, you get there quickly; if you are a Capone, the road is a bit longer. But in the end, you do get there.

Why, I preached to 60,000 persons in one day at the San Diego World's Fair last week. The nudist show there had no crowds like that.—Aimee Semple McPherson.

Since man is the object of woman's affections, why shouldn't he take thorough care of his appearance?—Gail, New York beauty specialist, explaining why men patronize beauty shops.

The one man heresy of the . . . President cannot destroy the Democratic party. It will live always under the same name.—Ex-Senator James A. Reed, Missouri.

Profitable Repairs

Above is shown a typical example of how a small business establishment may effectively modernize its exterior. Several definite results are noticeable. In this particular instance, this concern obtained three modernization jobs within three weeks after completing its own improvement project. What was formerly a shop became a showroom. Concerns in the building-materials business can effectively suggest advantages to be obtained from modernization by "practicing what they preach." Besides stimulating additional business, modernization of a commercial structure materially adds to its value and life as an income-producing property.

DAILY HEALTH

BEWARE OF THE FLY

It took a war to make us realize the dangerous character of the house fly.

This almost domesticated insect was for ages treated with indifference. We just didn't bother with it. Down to the year 1873 there were but three serious studies on the life history of the house fly. The cycle of the fly's life was traced for the first time in 1895.

In 1898 the United States army commission, consisting of Reed, Vaughan and Shakespeare, appointed to study typhoid fever in our Spanish-American war camps, recognized the fly for the villain it is. The commission found that flies serve as carriers of typhoid infection. Stated the commission: "Flies swarm over infected waste material in the pits and then deposit it and feed upon the food prepared for the soldiers in the mess tents."

Beside typhoid, flies also spread dysentery, cholera and other intestinal infections. Flies also may transmit erysipelas (St. Anthony's fire), anthrax, glanders and other skin infections. All of this should serve to impress us with the necessity for suppressing the fly nuisance. One way is to safeguard food from being contaminated by flies. This is particularly pertinent in the case of milk and such foods as are fed to infants and children.

In the country, the chief breeding place of the fly is in manure. One neglected stable will furnish a plague of flies for an entire neighborhood. In the city garbage and refuse, particularly if allowed to rot and to ferment, serve as breeding places for flies.

The Farmers Bulletin No. 734, United States Department of Agriculture, gives instructions for making ing and operating an effective fly trap. Flies that have gained entrance into the household may be destroyed by leaving exposed saucers containing a 1 to 2-2 per cent formaldehyde solution, or a 1 per cent sodium salicylate solution. Monday—Insects And Disease.

The line-up will be selected and posted in the Gazette show window.

THE TINYMITES
Story by HAL COCHRAN Pictures by GEORGE SCARBO

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

The big giraffe-duck walked along and Dotty cried, "My, he is strong. I thought my weight would bother him, but everything's all right."

"The way he shakes his funny hide makes this sort of a see-saw ride. I know I'd lose my balance, if I didn't hang on tight."

Then Duncy shouted, "When you get enough, I hope the duck will let me take a turn. It really looks like lots and lots of fun."

"Then, all the rest can follow me, and we can all have fun, you see. Why don't you yell giddap and try to make the old duck run?"

"Oh, no! The going would be rough," said Dotty. "This is fast enough. Besides, I do not want to make the duck get all tired out."

Then Duncy thought, I'll play a trick that ought to work out pretty slick. "Giddap, there, you old lazy duck," the lad began to shout.

The duck-giraffe was frightened and he tried to fly up off the land.

Woe Dotty's legs, however, held his wings right to his side.

He kept on squirming for a while, which made all of the Tunes smile. The duck, however, couldn't fly, no matter how he tried.

It wasn't very long until his rider nearly took a spill. He started walking faster. Then he headed toward a stream.

"Hey, stop him! Stop him!" Dotty cried. "I've had enough of this strange ride." Then, as she neared the water's edge, the Tunes heard her scream:

"He's mad because I wouldn't let him fly off of the ground, I'll bet. That's why he's going to have a swim. Oh, what an awful plight!"

The duck splashed in and Dotty fell. The Tunes then heard Scouty yell, "That was a funny ducking, but I guess it served you right."

Every one's a champion, and so patriotic Canadians couldn't resist the temptation to see what the Dionne quintuplets would look like as Olympic team candidates. Here they are in their cute little track shorts and athletic shirts with the Canadian maple leaf on the front. Who can tell? Maybe in a few years they'll really be skimming the hurdles or swimming for their native land. Left to right, Nurse Leroux, Marie, Annette, Yvonne (who seems inclined to cry at being left all by herself), Emelie, Cecile, and Nurse Lamoreux.

STERLING POOL OPERATES AT A LOSS ANNUALLY

Mayor Slothower Obtaining Data on Municipal Pools in Illinois

Mayor William Slothower is conducting an investigation of municipal swimming pools and made a first report of his survey to the city council at the regular weekly session last evening. The mayor stated that he had written to the Illinois Municipal League for data concerning the building and operation of swimming pools and expected to have considerable information within a few days from various parts of the state. In commenting upon the subject, Mayor Slothower read to the council a communication he had received from John W. Platt of Sterling, which contained extensive statistics concerning the operation of the pool at Lawrence park which is patronized by many Dixon residents. The communication follows:

Text of Reply

"Your letter addressed to the City Clerk of the City of Sterling has been handed to me for attention. In the first place let me explain that Lawrence park and its swimming pool are not under the control of the city of Sterling. The Sterling Municipal League for data concerning the building and operation of swimming pools and expected to have considerable information within a few days from various parts of the state. In commenting upon the subject, Mayor Slothower read to the council a communication he had received from John W. Platt of Sterling, which contained extensive statistics concerning the operation of the pool at Lawrence park which is patronized by many Dixon residents. The communication follows:

"Taxes for the support of the park and pool are levied on the two townships by the commissioners, each board acting for its township separately. Lawrence park as you no doubt know, is an island in Rock river and was a free gift to the two township park districts from John H. Lawrence, who also made very substantial cash donations to assist in the improvement of the park and the building of the swimming pool. The two park boards determined at the beginning to work on a strictly cash basis. No bonds have been issued and no debts incurred that we did not have the cash to pay for.

"We have no indebtedness of any kind. The cost of operation and maintenance for the year 1934 was about $3700, but this cost will vary a little from year to year due to the length of season and amount of repairs, replacement of supplies, etc. We consider $4000 per year a good safe average to figure on. From this you will see that during the first three years of operation we cleared from $1200 to $1700 per year, but during the last three years we have operated at a loss of from $1000 to $1500 per year.

"The following statistics will no doubt be found interesting and will also show how we arrive at the figures in the preceding paragraph. Statistics showing attendance and income from year to year for six years:

"1929 season of 64 days—16,484 adults over 12 years of age; 9675 children under 12 years of age; total 26,159; 650 bathing suits rented; total income $5718.00.

"1930 season of 80 days—12,731 adults; 13,649 children under 12; 1818 under 6; income $5212.45.

"1931 season of 85 days—14,629 adults; 14,719 children under 12; 1729 children under 6; income $554.78.

"1932 season of 83 days—7276 adults over 15; 10,349 children under 15; 1129 children under 6 years. Income $3041.90.

"1933 season of 82 days—4104 adults over 15; 1320 paying 25 cents; 1320 adults over 15 paying 20 cents; 9934 children under 15; 1052 under 6; income $2454.80.

"1934 season of 87 days—5570 adults over 15 paying 25 cents; 1350 over 15 paying 20 cents; 8679 children under 15; 922 children under 6; income $2700.15.

"You will notice from these figures that the hard times did not reach us until 1932 but it struck hard that year. You will also notice that in 1932 we raised the age limit for children from 12 to 15 years and this permitted many children to get in who would not otherwise have been able to do so. In 1932 also we yielded to pressure for reduced rates for adults by offering tickets in bunches of 5 for one dollar.

"I have written for information on swimming pools in many cities in the central west and will have this information available within

OUTCLASSING SMARTEST GIRLS ON CAMPUS

Morning 'till Night

Own silk taffeta with gold dots makes this lounging outfit, which includes one-piece pajamas and a swagger robe. This is ideal for a college girl's study hours, and for the travel-minded woman as well, being sturdy and not easily soiled.

Looking like woolen, but of pure silk knit in a luscious shade of Bermuda coral, this campus costume is worn with a green felt hat and leather belt in matching color.

For tea dates and week-end trips, Rosevinces cape ensemble of black silk sheer is sure to be useful to the co-ed. The cape is trimmed with square scalloped plastrons. Note baby bonnet hat.

A black and white gown with camisole bodice, threaded with green velvet, and a skirt that flares from the waistline is a formal gown guaranteed to impress any stag line. The shoe string shoulder straps are finished with tiny bows of the taffeta. Its simplicity gives it an unusually distinguished air.

RECALL POST'S CLOSE CALL AT QUINCY AIRPORT

Quincy, Ill., Aug. 17 —(AP)—Wiley Post, noted aviator killed with Will Rogers, famous comedian, had a narrow escape from death here two years ago.

On a "goodwill tour" for an oil company following his record-breaking flight around the world, Post set his plane, the "Winnie Mae," down at Quincy's airport on Sept. 21, 1933.

About mid-morning of that day he stepped confidently into the cabin of the plane in which he had traveled thousands of miles on his journey to eminence as an aviator and waved farewell to a group of friends. A few minutes later he was helped from the smashed ship, dazed and bleeding.

Failed to Clear Trees

The airport's northwest corner was bounded by a group of trees. To take advantage of the wind, Post had taken off at a tangent, then banked gracefully to fly off on the route he had chosen.

The watching group on the ground saw the ship waver, fail to gain the altitude those familiar with the terrain knew was necessary if Post was to clear the line of trees. The intrepid Post, conqueror of mountain ranges thousands of feet high, of icy wastes, dangerous ocean crossings, cut back across the port an altitude of less than 100 feet, and banged into the tree clump.

Blamed Engine

Airport officials dashed over to the wrecked ship in an automobile. Post was lifted out of the wreckage bleeding profusely from a head wound, and transported to a hospital, where his injury was diagnosed as a brain compression from a severe blow.

Post spent a week in the hospital, then four days at the home of L. P. Bonfoey, head of the state aeronautical association. When he left, he said he felt fully recovered and blamed the accident on his engine, which he said had not been warmed up sufficiently.

STAY OF MITTUMUS

Chicago, Aug. 17 —(AP)—Dave Barry, "long count referee" of the Tunney-Dempsey fight, delayed start of a one-year term in a county jail cell Friday when stay of mittimus until Sept. 27 was entered for him. Barry was convicted of conspiracy to embezzle $55,000 from the Amalgamated Trust & Savings bank in a deal to take control of the Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance Company, Springfield. Abraham Karatz, sentenced to serve one to ten years after his conviction in the same case, also was granted a mittimus.

Ray Tubbs is receiving many compliments on the fine manner in which he handled the job of toastmaster at the St. Patrick Holy Name Society breakfast, Sunday morning. A large number of members of the society attended the breakfast, a quarterly event, following first mass at St. Patrick's church in this city.

Toastmaster Tubbs introduced Rev. Father Robert C. Troy, pastor of the church, who gave a short talk. Following Father Troy's remarks a miscellaneous program was announced as follows:

Piano solo, Elizabeth Wedlock.
Dance, "Old Southern Custom," and "Never Say Never Again," Lena Merlo.

Vocal solos, "When I Grow To Old to Dream," and "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes," Helen McIntyre.

Dance, "Way Back Home" and "Fit as a Fiddle," Theresa Grennan.

Vocal solos, "Dark Eyes," and "Out of My Dreams," Dolores Fallon.

Dance, "What's the Reason" and "Notre Dame," Rita Mae Dempsey. Accompanist, Miss Helen Hegert.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Carthans and Dick and John Curtin of Chicago spent Sunday here at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Curtin. Miss Helen Curtin, who spent last week here, returned to Chicago with them.

Jack Berga entertained ten small guests last Friday afternoon at the home of his parents in honor of his sixth birthday. Various games were played and refreshments were served by Mrs. Berga.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Youngmark and children spent Tuesday at the Brookfield zoo and also visited Mr. Youngmark, who is a patient at the Edward Hines' hospital.

H. A. Bachofen, manager of the Amboy Milk Products Company, spent from Tuesday until Friday of last week at Lake Wawasee, Indiana, attending a national meeting of the Evaporated Milk Industry. Prizes were awarded in golf, fishing and bridge tournaments. Mr. Bachofen being awarded a fine leather toilet case as seventh prize in the golf tourney.

Miss Dolores Scott accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Waterpool and daughter Jean, who have been visiting Amboy relatives, to their home in Eau Claire, Wis., Thursday. She plans to remain until school opens.

Fred June of Rockford visited here with his sister, Mrs. H. C. Barth, Thursday afternoon.

Robert Entorf of Elmhurst is visiting his aunt, Miss Anna Ayres, and his grandfather, L. W. Entorf. A kitchen shower for Miss Mabel Smith, who will become the bride of Leslie Spencer on September 13 was held at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Smith on Thursday evening. Miss Smith received many useful gifts.

Mrs. Harry Turnquist, daughter Mary Louise of this city and the former's father, James Tension of Denver, Colo., returned last week from a two weeks' motor trip through the east. They visited relatives in Boston, Mass., and spent some time at Niagara Falls and other points of interest. Mr. Henderson will leave the latter part of this week for his home in Denver.

Potato production in the Kaw valley of Kansas will be near 1,000 carloads this year.

Two Indiana Youths Admit Theft of Plane

Chicago, Aug. 17 —(AP)—Two men arrested in a near west side flat early Friday were taken to Crown Point, Ind., to face charges of stealing an airplane from the Gary, Ind., airport. The plane was wrecked in an attempted takeoff at Kankakee, Ill., Monday night and the occupants, unhurt fled.

They gave their names as Walter Pemble, 29, of Whiting, Ind., and A. R. Fields, 27, of Hammond, Ind. The police said Pemble admitted taking the plane, owned by Nick Jankovich of Gary, and landing at Kankakee for gasoline. The ship struck a fence in the attempted takeoff.

HELEN MOODY CHANGES MIND WONT COMPETE

Decides To Give Up Forest Hills This Year

San Francisco, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Another surprise decision by Helen Willis Moody today removed her from the ranks of the contenders for the National women's tennis crown at Forest Hills this year.

"I feel that I have had enough tournament tennis for this season," said Mrs. Moody, who only a few weeks ago acted on an impulse that led to her comeback victory at Wimbledon.

Mrs. Moody made her announcement last night. Less than 24 hours before she had indicated she expected to leave for Forest Hills within a week.

"Another trip would be more than I feel able to undertake at this time," she added.

Complete Surprise

The announcement came as a complete surprise to her followers, who had looked forward with interest to her expected attempt to regain the national crown which she lost in the famous "default" match to Helen Jacobs in 1933.

On her return here 10 days ago from Wimbledon, where she humbled Miss Jacobs in the sensational comeback match, Mrs. Moody said she intended to compete at Forest Hills. She started training next day.

The seven-times winner of All-England title at Wimbledon had frankly intimated that she would not consider her triumph complete until she met and defeated Miss Jacobs, her arch-rival at Forest Hills, and regained the National championship.

RUTH BIGGEST DRAWING CARD

Shoots 83; Says The Movie Camera Upset Him

Cleveland, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Ted Luther of Youngstown, O., led the field in the $3,500 Open golf tournament today, but Babe Ruth attracted most of the spectators.

Ruth had a little difficulty with some of his shots in the opening round yesterday and wound up with a score of 85 while Luther finished with a 68. The Babe was a little distressed by his score, but not enough to discourage his hopes for today.

"Those movie camera guys certainly got me a lot of sevens," he said. Then he went into bunker to post a few more shots for the movies. Ruth played with Tommy Armour of Detroit who scored a 74 and Billy Burke of Cleveland, who made a 71. Ruth finished the first nine in 42 and came back with a 43.

Walter Hagen helped Ruth in drawing one of the largest golf crowds ever brought together in Cleveland—approximately 2,500 persons. Hagen shot the course in 36-37, 73, even par.

Jake Fassezke of Jackson, Mich., started today's round in second place. He finished in 69 yesterday. Either other players got under the par 73. Tied at 71 were T. Johnson of Decatur, Ill., and five others.

BRITONS GAIN ADVANTAGE IN CUP MATCHES

Trophy Passing From U. S. Grasp First Time Since 1930

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 17.—(AP)—America's women tennis players, after dominating the Wightman Cup competition with Great Britain for four straight years, faced an uphill battle today in defense of the international trophy.

Twice in a row, the United States has triumphed without the trenchant racket of the famous Helen Willis Moody, but it seemed unlikely this trick could be turned again on the first day's play.

Needless only an even break in today's four contests to carry the cup back to Great Britain for the first time since 1930, the challengers relied on Katherine Stammers and Dorothy Round to carry the attack again.

Outstanding Conquest

Miss Stammers achieved the outstanding conquest yesterday by rallying to down the three-time holder of the American championship, Helen Jacobs, by scores of 5-7, 6-1.

Her opponent today was Ethel Burkhardt Arnold, Los Angeles matron, who was trounced by Miss Round, 6-0, 6-3, for England's second point. Miss Round today drew Miss Jacobs for the feature singles engagement.

The Americans were not without hope of pulling out the series. They began their come-back with a surprisingly decisive doubles victory for Miss Jacobs and Sarah Palfrey Fabyan over the Wimbledon titleholders, Miss Stammers and Freda James, 6-3, 6-2, in yesterday's final match and they were prepared to pursue their rally this afternoon.

Mrs. Fabyan Counted On

On the basis of her superb doubles form, Mrs. Fabyan was counted upon to take today's opening singles match from Mrs. Phyllis Mudgeford King and thus square the count. The issue then would be placed squarely upon the sturdy shoulders of Miss Jacobs. Victory for the American champion, who has taken Miss Round's measure in the two Wightman Cup tournaments, would give the defenders two chances to keep the trophy.

Miss Stammers, a sensation in her first Wightman Cup appearance, figured to have the advantage over Mrs. Arnold. Should she be victorious again, she might clinch the cup—depending on earlier developments—or force the decision to the seventh and final match. In this the American doubles combination of Dorothy Andrus and Carolin Nabcock meets Evelyn Dearman and Nancy Lyle.

MYER VAULTS TO AMERICAN LOOP BAT LEAD

National League Is Still Headed by Arky Vaughan

New York, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The keen American league batting race produced another new leader and an equally new challenger during the past week while Pittsburgh's Arky Vaughan continued to breeze along toward the National league clouting title.

Buddy Myer, Washington veteran, and Roger (Doc) Cramer of the Athletics staged simultaneous spurts while Joe Vosmik's average dropped a trifle and as a result Myer moved to the head of the parade after yesterday's games while Cramer and Vosmik were tied for second place five points behind.

Vaughan increased his National league margin to 25 points over Joe Medwick of the Cardinals as he added two points to his mark, lifting it to .397 while Medwick took a seven-point drop.

Nearly a Thousand Golfers After Title

New York, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Nearly a thousand golfers in the United States seek the crown that now adorns the brow of Lawson Little, Jr.

The United States Golf Association has announced a record entry list of 954 for the national amateur championship.

Needless only an even break in today's four contests to carry the cup back to Great Britain for the first time since 1930, the challengers relied on Katherine Stammers and Dorothy Round to carry the attack again.

DEATH PLANE A COMBINATION OF TWO USED SHIPS

Dealer in Used Airplanes Reveals Construction of Posts

Los Angeles, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Although it was assembled from "spare parts," Wiley Post was proud of the low-winged monoplane which carried him and Will Rogers to death in the Arctic.

"She'll never be abused like Winnie Mae was," Post told mechanics when the ship was completed several weeks ago in Burbank. The Winnie Mae, placed in retirement by the flier, was the ship in which Post flew to aviation fame on two hazardous round-the-world flights.

Charles Babb, international dealer in used aircraft, disclosed that Post purchased the fuselage and wings of the new plane from him.

Wanted Greater Lift

"Post said he wanted a wing with a large lifting surface," Babb said. "I assumed he knew what he was about and it seemed logical when he explained that he was going to put a Lockheed Sirius wing on a Lockheed Orion fuselage, saying this combination would give him greater visibility."

"The Sirius wing is more practical for pontoons and skis; also wheels, and since there are more lakes in the northern country on which to land than there are flying fields, I'll do most of my flying up there with pontoons," Post told me.

Rt. 17, McLean Co., 3.7 miles bituminous road mix surface treatment from Danvers north toward Carlock, Berenz & Son, Bloomington, $19,116.80.

CARLOADINGS OFF

Washington, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The Association of American Railroads announced today loadings of revenue freight for the week ended August 10 were 583,473 cars, a decrease of 13,340 from the preceding week, 20,225 below the corresponding week in 1934 and 46,000 below the corresponding week in 1933.

FILM COLONIES STILLED TODAY AS STARS MOURN

Strange Reactions to Death of Best Loved of All Actors

Hollywood, Calif., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Hollywood turned sorrowing thoughts toward the north today as the body of its most beloved celebrity, Will Rogers, headed homeward.

Beverly Hills claimed him as a former mayor, Pacific Palisades as a resident, but Hollywood loved him as a co-worker—and one of the biggest box office names in pictures.

Strange were the reactions in gay, sentimental, sophisticated, maudlin Hollywood last night. This tinsel-streaked land of make-believe missed Will Rogers.

He was seldom, if ever, seen along the bright light frontier. Yet over the night club cocktail glasses a hush fell when the chatter turned, as it did all night, to the tragedy in the north.

At the Legion Stadium the usual crowd of Hollywoodites packed the house for the weekly fights. Joe E. Brown, the wide-mouthed comedian, climbed into the ring. He does it every Friday night, clowning, turning hand springs, challenging the fighters. The crowd always howls.

But Brown had a different tone last night. He paid a touching tribute to Will Rogers. Gallery gods listened in silence. Movie stars, bankers, merchants stood with bared heads as Brown recalled the name of Will Rogers.

POST'S FUNERAL IN GROVE NEAR PARENTAL HOME

Widow Allows Aged Parents of Flier to Arrange for Rites

Maysville, Okla., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Home folks will gather at a small grove before the farm of Wiley Post's parents near here to pay final tribute to the noted flier who crashed with Will Rogers in Alaska.

"I think the best place is right here at home," said gray-haired W. F. Post. "We can have the services out in the yard, where it's shady."

The decision was made after the flier's widow arrived to learn his parents' wishes on the funeral. She hastened to the humble frame bungalow in the Washita valley from Ponca City where she had been visiting, to assure the parents their wishes about funeral plans would go unquestioned.

Grave in Oklahoma City

The "round-the-world flier" will be buried in Oklahoma City, however. Three days after, after conferring with his sobbing wife, murmured: "We may not be here always, and we'd like to know his grave never would go untended."

Young Mrs. Post prepared today to speed to Seattle by airplane to meet the body of her husband. She returned to Ponca City last night.

Final funeral plans will take form when she claims the body.

Hardly awake even yet to the reality of Post's death, the proud but unassuming people of his little rural home town gathered in small groups and spoke of little else.

The Posts were left to sorrow alone on their small farm three miles north of here.

NEWS of the CHURCHES

GOSPEL TEXT NEWS

A large audience gathered at the Tent last night to hear Evangelist McNamara tell of some of his experiences in his Chicago Gospel Mission, located at 130 West Madison Street in one of the worst slum districts of the city. His work there is carried on entirely on faith.

In a wonderful way God puts it on the hearts of people to send in money and supplies that the work of preaching the gospel and leading those who are down and out, to the Lord and into service for Him, may continue.

Many very interesting accounts were given, that show us that no one is too deep in sin for the Lord to lift him out if he will only turn to Him and let Him have a chance to work through him.

Tonight, tomorrow afternoon and evening will be Rev. McNamara's last service at the Tent. The offering of tomorrow will go to him.

Next Tuesday evening, Miss Dorothy Hunzman of California who on two occasions has conducted evangelistic campaigns in Dixon, will begin a two week's service.

RESCUES FROM BURNING HOUSE PART OF CIRCUS

Will Be One Feature of Boy Scouts Gathering at Rochelle Aug. 29

A burning building act will climax the Boy Scout circus at Rochelle, Thursday, August 29, which will be participated in by Lee and Ogle county troops.

The big circus day will open at 10 A. M. Thursday when an inspection of troops and a preparation of floats for the parade will be made. The parade itself will move through the business district of the town at 10:30 o'clock. The regular circus events begin at 1:45 P. M. Included in the many acts of a three-ring production Scouts will compete in a string burning race, an equipment race, a staff relay, a skin the snake act, and horse and rider acts.

Other acts will include a first aid demonstration, water boiling contest, pioneering events, bungling contest, and the grand finale.

Rehearsal Necessary

The burning building act will necessitate a rehearsal the day before the circus. In the act a building will be set on fire and troops will "rescue" its occupants from the flames by proper Scout methods. First aid will be given to victims, who will be carried from the scene on improvised stretchers hastily constructed by the Scouts from all meagre available equipment.

The grand finale will include the presentation of ribbons and the Carney loving cup to be awarded the outstanding troop for its record during the two day affair of which the circus is the concluding event.

On the circus committee are William Hunt, Rochelle, general chairman; Howard Grube, Rochelle, swimming meet; O. A. Henke, Mt. Morris, publicity; Enos Kietlihy, Dixon, exhibits, assisted by D. C. Findlay, Mt. Morris; Seth Foster, Rochelle, circus; C. A. Hills, Rochelle, registration; Harry Ingleson and Dr. C. E. Motlong, Rochelle, camp manager; E. N. Rochelle, camp managers; E. N.

JOHNSON QUITS AS LEADER OF ILLINOIS G.O.P.

Resigned Late Yesterday to Promote Harmony in Party

Chicago, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Illinois Republicans had a new leader today.

John Searing of Carbondale took over the state chairmanship late yesterday in a change designed to end the dissension over the leadership of Justus L. Johnson of Aurora which developed after last fall's campaign.

Johnson resigned at a meeting called by his opponents in a move to force him out. Searing, resigning his office as third vice chairman, immediately was elected to the chairmanship by unanimous vote. William K. Allen of Peoria was named third vice chairman.

In stepping aside, Johnson said he did so because of the question of legality of his election April 20, 1934, and "to promote the harmony of the party."

He defended his record as chairman with an assertion that "I am certain that during my chairmanship the party regained considerable lost ground, and that my efforts surpassed those of any former chairman."

Searing, former Jackson county state's attorney, took his new office with the claim that "not since the Civil War have we had a situation where the people are looking for a party to lead the way out of the distress."

Searing said the would present tentative plans for the 1936 campaign at a meeting of the state committee at Peoria within six weeks.

Robinson Issues Warning to Senate

Washington, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Plans to consider rail pension and farm bankruptcy legislation before congress adjourns were disclosed Friday by Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader.

At the same time, he warned his colleagues that congress must adjourn in a few days and "we will have to leave something undone."

He said congress should be ready to adjourn next Tuesday or Thursday at the latest.

The discussion arose when the Frazier bill to replace the Frazier-Lemke farm bankruptcy law declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court came up in the senate.

Council Acts to Put an End to All Card Playing, Etc., in Them

An amendment to the present city liquor ordinance, intended for the purpose of eliminating petty gambling in taverns and places licensed to sell beer and liquor in Dixon was unanimously passed upon by the city council at the weekly session last evening. Commissioner Cal G. Tyler presented the amendment which eliminates section 17 as originally drafted to control gambling, and makes very specific the line to be drawn in the future.

The action was said to have resulted from reports of gambling in various forms in taverns and places dispensing beer under city license. Police a few days ago visited every licensed dealer in Dixon to issue warning that card playing would not be further tolerated. Following this warning came a report of the operation of a horse race betting plant in the basement of a tavern in the business district and when this was visited, the police found the room securely locked. It was reported. The new section sets forth the offensive operations as defined by the city council as follows:

Text of Amendment
"Each and every sale or purchase wherein any part of the article or thing received either as to quantity or value, which in any manner depend upon any chance or hazard, whether by means of checks, cards, envelopes, dice, punch boards, baseball pool, weather ticket or by any means whatever, shall not be permitted in or about the licensed premises, or in any room in the same building for which a license is granted and controlled by the licensee. Every clock, machine, slot machine, pin and ball machine, card playing or book making, or any machine or device for the reception of money on chance or upon the action of which money is staked, hazarded, bet, won or lost, is hereby declared a gambling device and the same shall be seized and confiscated and destroyed by the police or any other municipal authority of the City of Dixon, wherever found upon the licensed premises or place controlled by the licensee.

This ordinance shall be in force and effect from and after its passage as provided by law."

Complain of Dogs
A claim in the sum of $2,897.38 against the improvement of 17th street was presented to the council and ordered paid.

Mayor Slothower read a petition bearing signatures of approximately 50 property owners residing in the vicinity of Highland avenue between Tenth and Eleventh streets, which complained bitterly of an annoyance caused by several dogs owned by George Collins, colored. The petition was referred to the department of public health and safety.

Applications of W. C. Kleaveland, 204 First street and Robert Reed, 118 East First street, to erect signs were granted.

The annual tax levy ordinance which conforms to the appropriation measure was presented and filed with City Clerk Blake C. Grover for a period of one week.

Mayor Slothower informed the council that the city's share of gas tax refund from the state for the month of July amounted to $1,328.84.

BAPTIST REVIVAL SERVICES

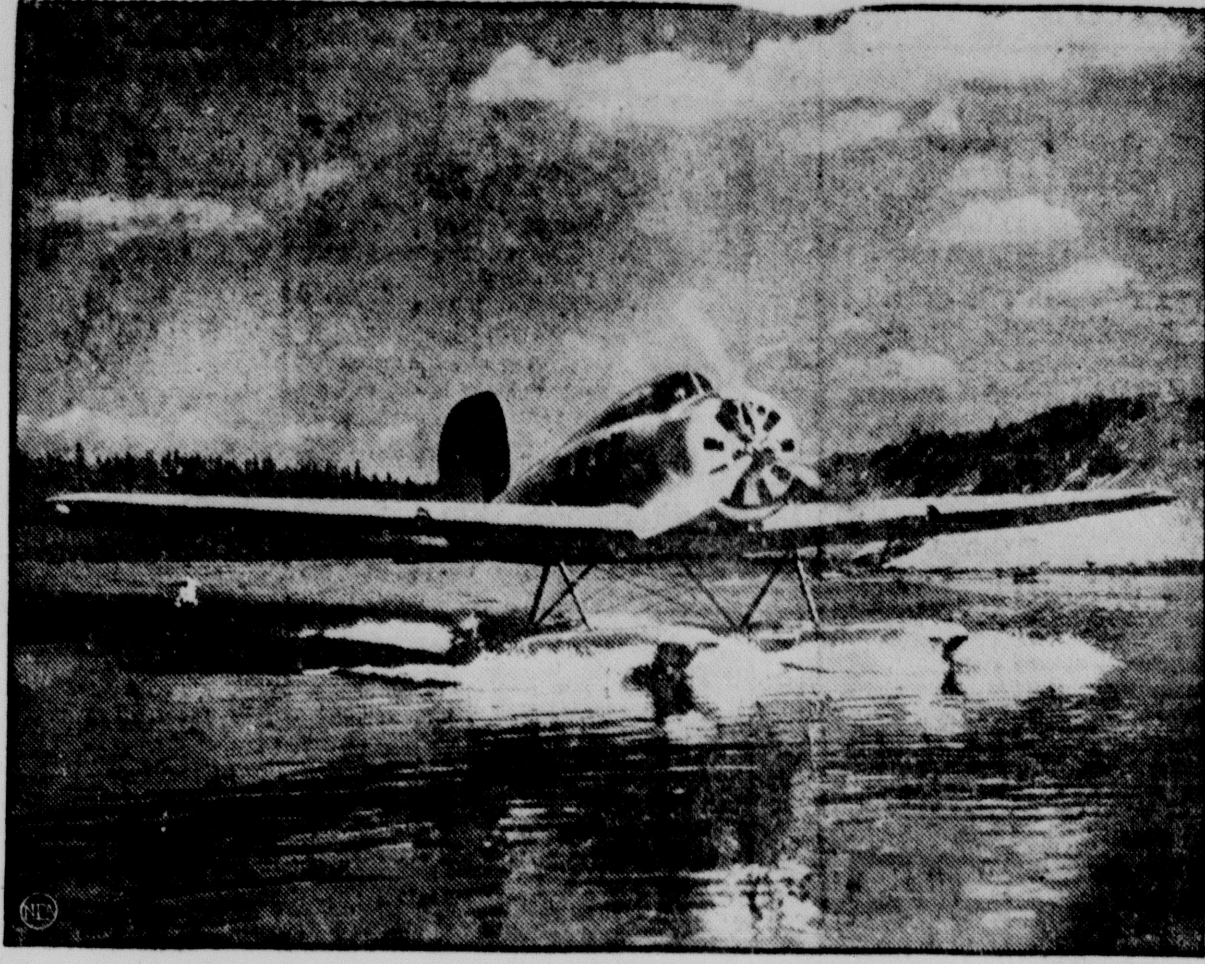

If you want to hear the simple gospel, come to the daily services at the Baptist church. Services at 10:00 and 7:30 with stirring gospel singing led by Keith Taber. Prayer meeting at 7:15 each evening.

Evangelist Beaman will speak this evening on "The Sun of Righteousness." Tomorrow morning he will speak at 10:45 on "Faith as a Grain of Mustard Seed." The speaker will tell something of the west Kentucky Bible school, Murray, Kentucky, of which he is the president. Special effort is being made to get young people to hear Brother Beaman address the B. Y. P. U. and Pioneers tomorrow evening at 6:30. Don't miss it. Evening sermon at 7:30 on "Christ's Word of Forgiveness."

Last evening the evangelist discussed for five minutes this question, "When did the New Testament church begin?" Three answers are given: The day of Abraham, the personal ministry of Jesus, and Pentecost. The speaker showed the church is a New Testament institution and was founded by Jesus in person. The apostles were set in the church at their ordination. The church had before Pentecost the only two scriptural ordinances: Baptism and the Supper of our Lord. It had a rule of discipline, Matt. 18:15-18. It had the marching orders of the Great Commission. It had a church roll of 120, and they had a business meeting and elected a successor to Judas. Three thousand souls were added to the church on Pentecost. One cannot add something to nothing. The church was functioning before Pentecost and was empowered on that day. Oh for Pentecost power upon us!

Rev. Beaman drew three stirring pictures from the story of the Brazen Serpent: A picture of sin, a picture of the cross, and a picture of faith. The wilderness of straying pictures the sinner lost and straying in sin. Death from the poison of the serpents tells of the poison of sin that brings death. The poison gets into the blood; so sin gets into the heart of men. It is no mere veneer; it is a cancer eating out the vitals of the soul. The uplifting of the brass serpent pictures the uplifting of Jesus on the cross. That is the only way of salvation and the only remedy of sin. The look of the bitten Israelites to the brass serpent on the pole illustrates faith in Christ as a look to Jesus who died on the cross. The speaker told the story of the conversion of Spurgeon, how he heard an exhorter cry to him, "Look, Look, Look, young man I say unto you, look." And he looked to Jesus and lived. Keith Taber sang, "Look and Live."

EIGHTY-THIRD SESSION STATE FAIR UNDER WAY

Entries From Every One of States and Canada Reported Today

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 17.—(AP)—The Illinois state fair—combining agricultural and household exhibits with an entertainment program and political rallies—opened today for the 83rd time.

As the gates swung open at the fair grounds at the north edge of Springfield, Eugene E. Irwin of Salem, the new general manager, announced that entries are on hand from 48 states and Canada.

With tickets being freely distributed from the State House, fair officials said attendance and entries would exceed those of 1934.

Chief interest on the opening day centered in the 4-H club building, where the healthiest boy and girl were being selected.

The Illinois Veterans League, composed of Democratic service men, met today to make plans for the 1936 campaign. They will participate tomorrow in the Veterans' Day program, when bands, drum corps and drill teams compete for prizes.

$140,000 in Prizes
Prize money totaling $140,000 and 38 cups will be awarded before the fair closes next Saturday.

The opening program included a series of running races on the mile track, a gasoline rodeo, a horse show and the first judging of farm products.

The leading trotting and pacing horses from the Grand Circuit will again appear from Monday through Friday. Greyhound, the winner of the Hambletonian classic at Goshen, N. Y., is scheduled to race on the Springfield track.

Democratic politicians will dominate the Thursday program, officially designated as Governor's day. Governor Horner and other Democratic leaders are scheduled to speak from the grand stand.

BRITISH WRITER SLAIN BY BANDIT GANGS IN CHINA

London, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Reuters (British) news agency has reported from Peiping the murder by Chinese bandits of Gareth Jones, British newspaper correspondent.

(Unconfirmed) private reports were received in Peiping from Kalgan, Inner Mongolia, that Jones' body was found a few miles outside of Paochang, to which Chinese troops were carrying it. The British embassy there, however, said it was not informed of Jones' death.

Jones, making a first-hand investigation of conditions in China, was taken by bandits in Inner Mongolia July 29. Captured with him was Herbert Mueller, correspondent for the German News Bureau.

Mueller was released Aug. 1 after rough handling and permitted to go to Peiping with a demand by the bandits that $40,000 ransom be paid and also demanded that arms and for the release of Jones. The bandits were sent them before the newspaperman could go free.

The report from Peiping said that Jones was shot three times and that the murder apparently took place Aug. 12.

Jones formerly was private secretary to former Prime Minister David Lloyd George.

ABOUT 45 PER CENT OF THE EARTH'S EXISTENCE HAS BEEN WITHOUT EITHER PLANT OR ANIMAL LIFE!

The ancients arranged the planets thus: Saturn, Jupiter, Mars, the Sun, Venus, Mercury, and the Moon. They assumed that each hour of the day was ruled in turn by one of these planets. Thus, Saturn ruled the first hour of Saturday; also the eighth, fifteenth and twenty-second hours. The twenty-fifth, beginning the next day, fell to the lot of the sun, therefore that day was called Sunday.

PROCEEDINGS OF SPECIAL AUGUST MEETING OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

State of Illinois, County of Lee—ss.

On Wednesday, the 7th day of August A. D. 1935, at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon, the Board of Supervisors of Lee County met at the Court House in the City of Dixon, in Special Session pursuant to a call signed by more than one-third of the members of said board and filed with the County Clerk as provided by law.

The meeting was called to order by William Burhenn, Chairman of said Board. The following members were present: Supervisors Hemenway, Buckingham, Wagner, Burhenn, Archer, Ramsdell, Spencer, Garrison, Beede, H. L. Gehant, Rose, Stanley, Anderson, Mau, Kranov, Willis, Finn, Avery, Wolf, Emmitt, Mehlihausen, Shipper, Kuebel, L. L. Gehant, Risetter and Knetsch.

A motion was made by Supervisor Knetsch, seconded by Supervisor Hart, that the Board appropriate $5000.00 from funds not otherwise appropriated and $5000.00 from Motor Fuel Tax Fund, to the Board for the purpose of discussing the new New Works Progress Administration and the financial means of counties taking care of their part of same.

County Superintendent of Highways Fred W. Leake spoke before the Board regarding the allotment of Motor Fuel Tax money for right-of-way purpose Route No. 1. Considerable discussion by various members followed on obtaining right of way for a new route and also the acceptance of bonds given by townships for money loaned to the townships.

A motion was made by Supervisor Mau, that the matter of rescinding the action taken by the Board and Bridge Committee relative to the bond that each township shall give for the purchase of right-of-way be referred back to the Board and Bridge Committee to report at this meeting. Said motion was duly seconded by Supervisor L. L. Gehant.

The project of Works Progress Administration was explained, by the County Superintendent of Highways, Fred W. Leake, to the Board.

Upon motion of Supervisor Ramsdell, seconded by Supervisor Spencer, the Board adjourned until one-thirty P. M.

At the hour of one-thirty P. M. the Board of Supervisors reconvened. Those present were Supervisors Hemenway, Buckingham, Wagner, Burhenn, Archer, Ramsdell, Spencer, Garrison, Beede, H. L. Gehant, Stanley, Anderson, Mau, Kranov, Finn, Avery, Wolfe, Emmitt, Hart, Mehlihausen, Shipper, Kuebel, L. L. Gehant, Risetter and Knetsch.

The Road and Bridge Committee presented their resolution to the Board in regard to the bonds of the various townships. Upon motion of Supervisor Archer, seconded by Supervisor Risetter, the report is received, approved and recommended to the Board.

By the Board, Said resolution is in the words and figures following:

Dixon, Illinois
Aug. 7, 1935.
REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION OF ROAD AND BRIDGE COMMITTEE.

Honorable Chairman and Members of Lee Co. Board of Supervisors:
Your Road and Bridge Committee, to whom was referred the matter of bringing in a resolution authorizing townships to borrow MFT money forwarded to Lee County under MFT allotment, beg leave to make the following report and recommendation:

At a meeting of this Board held on July 10th, 1935, this Committee deemed it advisable that before any money was loaned to any township a good and sufficient personal bond should be furnished, signed by landowners within the township, which bond should be subject to the approval of Road and Bridge Committee and we beg leave to make the following report and recommendation in connection with this matter:

We feel that Lee County should be indemnified as they have been in the past in the matter of right of way with a bond which insures the County that in the event money is loaned it will be returned to them, therefore, we do not recommend that the resolution passed at the meeting held July 10th, 1935, be rescinded.

There was much discussion on the W. P. A. Project as explained to the Board this morning by Fred W. Leake, County Superintendent of Highways.

A motion was made by Supervisor Mau, seconded by Supervisor Stanley, that the black top surfacing on road connecting Nelson, Lee County, with Whiteside County be stricken from Project. The said matter coming on for a vote of the various members of the Board the Clerk proceeded to call the Roll.

Those voting aye: Supervisors Ramsdell, Garrison, H. L. Gehant, Stanley, Anderson, Mau, Kranov, Wolf, Kuebel—9.
Those voting nay: Supervisors Hemenway, Buckingham, Wagner, Archer, Spencer, Beede, Finn, Avery, Emmitt, Hart, Mehlihausen, Shipper, Kuebel, Gehant, Risetter, Knetsch—15.

Therefore the Chairman declared said motion lost.

A motion was made by Supervisor Knetsch, seconded by Supervisor Hart, that the Board appropriate $5000.00 from funds not otherwise appropriated and $5000.00 from Motor Fuel Tax Fund, to the Board for the purpose of discussing the new New Works Progress Administration and the financial means of counties taking care of their part of same.

TIGERS, YANKS HAVE CRUCIAL SERIES ALSO

Giants and Cards End Their "Crucial" Games This Afternoon

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer

While the Giants and Cardinals wind up their still highly important series today a new "crucial" battle gets under way, involving the Detroit Tigers and their leading challengers, the New York Yankees.

The clash in the American league where the Tigers hold a six-game lead can hardly compare with the National league battle in which the Cards scored a stirring 1 to 0 triumph behind Dizzy Dean yesterday to keep the excitement at a high pitch, but should either the Yanks or Tigers win the series decisively it may prove to be the turning point in the pennant race.

The Cardinal triumph not only evened the series in preparation for today's final struggle but it again reduced New York's lead to three games and gave St. Louis a more definite hold on second place as Chicago dropped a 2 to 1 decision to Brooklyn.

Gratifying Triumph

For the elder Dean, who seems to reserve his best pitching for the pinches, it was a highly gratifying personal triumph. Not only did he beat the Giants for the first time this season, but he shut them out with three puny hits and became the first pitcher of the year in either league to win 20 victories.

Hal Schumacher, who elbowed for the Giants, also pitched a three-hit shutout up to the ninth inning when Pepper Martin took things in hand and scored the only run. Pepper teed off with a single, stole second, advanced to third when Manager Frankie Frisch beat out a single and then hoisted a long fly to center.

The Cubs lost a mound duel between George Earnshaw and Charley Root when Jimmy Bucher opened the home half of the ninth with a homer.

Both the Tigers and Yankees took lickings in preparation for their important meetings. Detroit went down 8 to 1 before Washington when Bump Hadley held the league leaders to four blows.

On Short End

The Yanks came out of the short end of an 8 to 5 score at Cleveland. Johnny Allen got himself tossed out of the game for arguing with Umpire Harry Geisel when the Yanks were leading 3-0 in the third. Pat Malone was nicked for four tallies, including Earl Averill's homer with two on. When New York went ahead again two errors by Jack Saltzger, a walk and a wild pitch by Malone and a pinch hit by Ralph Winegarner gave Cleveland three more runs and the game.

Chicago's White Sox ended their seven-game losing streak when young Vernon Kennedy outlasted Wes Ferrell to win a 14-inning struggle with the Boston Red Sox 4 to 3. With Sugar Cain whiffing 13 of his former teammates, the Browns trimmed the Athletics 7 to 2. It was the best strikeout feat in the American league this season.

After winning three straight games to equal their high mark for the year, the Braves turned around and dropped a doubleheader to Cincinnati, 3 to 1 and 4 to 3.

SPENT PUBLIC FUNDS

Quincy—The county board of supervisors finance committee announced that George M. Smith, Adams county school superintendent for 12 years, admitted spending $26,868.55 of public funds in market speculation. The committee said the matter would be left to bondsmen for Smith, who was succeeded Aug. 5 by William D. Mitchell.

SUN-TAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JO DARIEN breaks her engagement to BRETT PAUL, college athlete star, because he objects to her taking a job as hostess at Crest Lake Inn, fashionable summer resort owned by wealthy DOUGLAS MARSH. Jo goes to Crest Lake and later Brett arrives as a life guard.

Prompted by his mother, Marsh asks Jo to leave Crest Lake, she decides to go to Hollywood to look for a job and Fragonet persuades her to go with him by plane. He takes her to an attractive hotel, promises to call later to take her to dinner.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXVI

TRUE to Fragonet's promise, Jo's telephone aroused her in the early evening. When she had thanked the operator and walked to the window for another glimpse of her new world she discovered that the big sign on the foothills was obscured by the gathering dusk.

Jo bathed leisurely, enjoying the exciting luxury of the tub set flush with the floor, the gleaming black-and-gold fixtures, the soothing aroma of the bath salts she had found packaged and ready in their special niche. But when she examined her scant wardrobe she was a little sorry she hadn't overcome her conscience and carried away one of the evening dresses she had bought for her job at Crest Lake. The gowns of Cocoanut Grove, she knew, were daring and smart. How would her one, not-so-unusual evening gown look in those glamorous surroundings? Jo knew the answer as well as any girl would know it—but like many another girl she shrugged her pretty shoulders and concluded that it would have to do.

And when she had put on the dress she had to confess, with a shade of egotism, that she didn't look badly at all.

She had dressed in a hurry, for Fragonet had been a bit vague about the hour he would call; and when he did not appear at once Jo began nervously going over her toilet. Then, realizing that in her nervousness she was ruining whatever poise she might be able to muster for the evening, she sat down and quietly lit a cigaret.

A HALF hour passed—an hour—and still another hour which seemed to drag out twice as long as the first. At last Jo could stand it no longer and she took up the telephone directory, resolving to call Fragonet at his home. She knew that his residence was in Beverly Hills, but to her disappointment she found no Peter Fragonet listed in the book. Then she remembered that the more popular movie stars never have their telephone numbers listed—or list them under other names. But she did find the number of the Atlas studio and she called there, hoping she might prevail upon someone to tell her Fragonet's number.

For a long time the telephone at the other end of the line seemed to be buzzing in an empty room. But finally a weary night operator answered. She told Jo that she couldn't give out Mr. Fragonet's number, and that she didn't know what it was anyhow.

Jo refused to believe her. "I had an appointment with Mr. Fragonet two hours ago," she explained. "I'm afraid something may have happened to him, and if you'd please call his home and tell them—"

"I don't know his home number," said the operator again.

"Then have you any idea where he might be tonight at this hour?" "Well . . . I should think he ought to be over at Gramman's Chinese."

"Where?" asked Jo, puzzled.

"Gramman's Chinese. The theater. They're having an Atlas premier over there tonight, and most of the Atlas stars are there."

"But I'm sure—you see, he was coming here."

The girl at the Atlas studio laughed. "Well, sister, Mr. Fragonet always was absent-minded about those things."

Angrily Jo replaced the receiver. "He'll surely come," she thought. "He wouldn't let me down like this the very first night. . . . Something unavoidable has happened to make him late."

But still another hour passed and Peter Fragonet had neither appeared nor telephoned. Really worried now, Jo thought of telephoning the famous "Chinese." A hurried voice answered her after a short wait.

"I'm interested to know if Peter Fragonet is attending the premier there tonight," Jo said, her voice trembling.

The voice replied as if it had answered hundreds of similar questions that night. "Yes," it said. "Mr. and Mrs. Fragonet have a box with a party of friends."

"I—I see. Thank you very much. . . ."

Jo sank back in her chair, bewildered beyond thought. Some how she had believed that Mrs. Fragonet was not in Hollywood at all, and certainly Fragonet had been emphatic enough in his statements that he would have nothing to do with her again. And now—Edna Fragonet was not only in Hollywood, but Fragonet was with her in a box at Gramman's Chinese theater!

Suddenly Jo wilted. Suddenly she felt more tired even than she had that morning upon her arrival with a choked sob she flung her self on the bed. How long she lay there, fully clothed, she did not know—but when the telephone rang it roused her from a troubled, dream-haunted sleep. She responded drowsily. It was Fragonet, speaking in a low, guarded voice.

"Jo? . . . Jo, darling, I'm terribly sorry. . . ."

"It's—it's quite all right," Jo managed to say. "After all, what's more right than that you should attend a premier with your wife rather than take me to Cocoanut Grove?"

"Then you know what happened?" he asked, after a pause. "I—I thought something had happened to you. I telephoned the studio and they told me about the premier. So I called to make sure you were there."

"Jo, I've got to see you right away. I've got to explain how it was."

"Explanations aren't really necessary."

"But I'm going to make one. If you'll believe me, I'll be over right away."

"It's too late. I've been in bed

Fragonet two hours ago," she explained. "I'm afraid something may have happened to him, and if you'd please call his home and tell them—"

"I don't know his home number," said the operator again.

"Then have you any idea where he might be tonight at this hour?" "Well . . . I should think he ought to be over at Gramman's Chinese."

"It's too late. I've been in bed for hours," Jo lied. "Can't you tell me over the telephone?"

"Not very well. I'll be over right away."

"Please don't—"

But already he had replaced the receiver at his end of the wire. He would be at the apartment, as he'd said. Jo was sure of it. Hurriedly she bathed her face in cold water, rearranged her hair, busied herself with rouge and powder. She mustn't let him see how disturbed she'd been. She mustn't let him know it could matter.

WITHIN a few minutes he was at the door. When he saw her fully dressed for the evening his face showed his astonishment.

"I fussed a bit about being in bed," explained Jo lightly. "The truth was that I'd been asleep. It's fortunate we didn't go to Cocoanut Grove, really. I'd have fallen asleep at the table."

But Fragonet was deadly serious. "Jo, I couldn't help what happened tonight. I'd no idea Edna was in town. I thought she was in the east. But tonight, just as I was about to leave, she came to the house with Boleson, the big chief at Atlas. He said there'd been gossip and that I'd better appear at the premier with Edna. They had it all arranged—the party of friends and all. I couldn't telephone you until just a few minutes ago. He stopped. "What are you smiling at, Jo?"

"Was I smiling? I didn't mean to. But I was thinking about how you said you'd be so quick to give up pictures." Jo shook her head slowly. "You couldn't ever do that. You'll always jump when they crack the whip—because you've built up somebody called Peter Fragonet, and you haven't tear him down."

He took a step toward her. "I will give pictures up, Jo. I swear it! . . . Only I can't afford to have trouble now, just when they're about to release a new picture of mine. When that's done—then I'll tell Boleson and Edna where to go."

"I think it was decent of Mrs. Fragonet to help you save your reputation after . . . what's happened," Jo said.

"Decent?" cried Fragonet. "She doesn't want my new picture to be a flop—because she knows that the more I've got the more she can bleed me in the divorce settlement."

Jo was silent a moment. Then, slowly: "One thing is certain, Peter. I've made a terrible mistake in coming here at all—but now that it's done I must forget I ever knew you. And you'll have to forget you knew me. It just won't work, that's all."

"It will, Jo. When this is over . . ."

"No . . . Tomorrow I'll move into a cheaper place and start hunting for a job."

"Jo darling, please listen a moment. In two months at the most you and I can dash over to Las Vegas and be married secretly. And as for your moving away from here—that's utter nonsense. I've leased this apartment for you, and all the bills are to come to me."

Jo stepped back, if from a blow. For the first time she realized that she had allowed Fragonet to rush her headlong into a position almost certain to mean disaster for them both.

(To Be Continued)

E. A. Plumb of Rochelle was here Thursday taking the place of Station Agent Howard Karper, while he was in Sterling attending the funeral of his grandmother, Mrs. Reed.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Llewellyn of Chicago were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Brewer. They were enroute to Phoenix, Ariz., and California for a five weeks trip. Mr. Llewellyn is the son of Annie Stocking, a former Franklin Grove girl.

The Golden Gleamers Sunday school class of the Presbyterian church at Ashton taught by Mrs. Golden Calhoun enjoyed a wienner roast Monday afternoon on the camp grounds. The girls spent the afternoon swimming in the lovely pool. They report a most delightful time.

Kindergarten Modernization

Environment plays an important part during the first impressionable years that a child attends school. In this line, schools throughout the country are showing interest in the possibilities of modernizing kindergartens under the terms of the Federal Housing Administration's amended modernization credit plan. Through this method, funds in amounts up to $50,000 are now available at private lending institutions to "schools, colleges, orphanages, etc.", for improvement purposes. Above is shown an example of the modern kindergarten. Spaciousness, a long blackboard, cheerful furniture and woodwork, and a colorful floor make this room appealing to the youthful eye. Details concerning the financing of kindergarten modernization projects under terms of the National Housing Act are available at any office of the Federal Housing Administration.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Brucker of south of town were dinner guests Sunday at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Hoff of Nachusa.

Mrs. Paul Meyers of Aurora entertained with two tables of bridge at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Banker at this place Thursday. Out of town guests were Mrs. Arthur Morris and Mrs. Hulsart of Dixon; Miss Signi Larson of Rock Island; Mrs. Bernel Knapp of Ashton; Mrs. Wilbur Brecunier won high score and Mrs. Knapp second high. Each guest was presented with a gift. During the afternoon lovely refreshments were served.

Prof. Oscar Neher and daughter Dorothea, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Neher left Thursday morning for their home in North Manchester, Ind.

Everyone Is Talking

When you see two or more people together talking, you know almost instantly that they are talking about the homecoming and the big jubilee. That is the main topic of the day. Hardly a day goes by but what someone in the village receives a letter from a former resident saying they are planning to be here for the centennial homecoming, which is to be held Labor day on the camp ground.

Everyone is telling everyone and writing to all old friends. Four hundred post cards have been printed, to be sent to former residents. If you have any one you want a card sent to give the name and address to any one of the committee, and the invitation will be forwarded at once. We feel sure that no visitor will be disappointed, for plans are made for that will entertain everyone, children as well. It has been known that when Franklin Grove does something it is done right, and this Centennial will be no exception.

About ten o'clock in the morning a parade, illustrating the Indians giving away their domains to the white pioneers, will be shown, followed by the covered wagon train and pioneers; and floats by different organizations; and many other features. It is planned for the procession to go through the village on as many streets as possible and finally terminate on the old camp ground, where all of the homecoming program will be held. After the parade the picnic dinners on the camp ground will be next in order. It is planned that hot coffee and cold lemonade will be furnished free to all on the grounds. It is hoped that the dinners may be had at 12 o'clock, so that some time might be spent in visiting before the program which will be given in the auditorium. Following is the program as planned at this time:

Camp Ground Program
12 o'clock noon—Picnic dinners.
1:30 P. M.—Music by the band in the auditorium.
President of the day—Miss Adeline Helmershausen, short talk.
Address of welcome—Mayor Geo. L. Spangler.

Song leader—Nelson Blocher.
Pianist—Miss Alice Helmershausen.

Short talks by former residents—three to five minutes, George T. Noe, Frank C. Brayton, Rev. S. H. Wirshing, Frank G. Scott, Mrs. F. A. Dow, Attorney E. E. Wingert, Dr. F. P. Thompson, Earl E. Orndorff, Mrs. Leona Canterbury Mandeville.

Volunteer talks.
Piano solo, Miss Alice Helmershausen.
Music by the band.
None of the speeches will be long or uninteresting. They will be curtailed to a few minutes in order that the program will pass quickly and give more time for the renewing of old acquaintances. The program will be enjoyed. The large swimming pool will furnish much pleasure to the young folks who will not want to attend the program.

After the homecoming on the camp grounds the big jubilee will begin on Main street and last till the small hours of the night. The booths that are planning food sales will no doubt have them ready by five o'clock, so that you need not go home. Just have your supper on Main street. The Boy Scouts will have a hamburger booth and the Library will have plenty of pies at their booth. A piece of pie with the hamburger will go just fine. Another booth will serve hot coffee. There will be many other booths of

Tokyo Pupils Study Air Raid Defense

"Gas!" "Enemy planes!" Those cries brought thousands of Tokyo primary school students tumbling from their class rooms wearing gas masks. Of course, Tokyo wasn't actually being attacked from the air, defense drill staged by the army gave the capital a realistic foretaste of what to expect in event of war.

various descriptions having noise makers, and other articles for sale. It is planned to have several ponies for the children to ride, and old folks also. After the band concert the big jubilee will be in full swing and everybody will be having a good time, and so will you have a good time if you are in Franklin Grove in the evening of Labor day. You will always remember the Centennial celebration held at Franklin Grove as one of the best times you have ever had. Watch these plans from time to time for new addition of pleasure. Plans are underway for several attractions which the committee hope to be able to book for that night.

30c for 100 lbs.

15c for 50 lbs.

10c for 25 lbs.

The above prices do not effect or refer in any way to the price of ice delivered. Ask for our ice and accept no offer.

Our ice is of the highest quality, made in the most modern plant in northern Illinois in large cans insuring overweight. Our name guarantees purity and promptness of service.

IMPORTANT...

WE SERVE YOU 365 DAYS OF EVERY YEAR.

You buy ice for refrigeration, therefore it is important to get clear, hard-frozen big chunks right out of freezing temperature, quickly served to your refrigerators.

Our Room Cooler Air Conditioner does a wonderful job in washing and purifying the air, making a room, office, store or restaurant perfectly comfortable on the hottest day.

1. TEMPERATURE

Any modern refrigerator will furnish temperature.

2. MOISTURE

Ice refrigeration alone keeps your food moist eliminating loss of flavor by drying out. Closing the food up in containers eliminates ventilation making a bad matter worse.

3. VENTILATION

Ice refrigerators keep your food from odor-tainting. The constantly circulating odor-laden air from your food is cleansed by the moist surface of the ice, cleaning and sweetening the whole interior of the refrigerator.

The amount and character of these odors and gases given off are clearly shown as the slime that accumulates in the ice refrigerator drain, or when defrosting an electric refrigerator.

ITALY'S FIRST STEP IN AFRICA

ITALY'S FIRST STEP IN AFRICA

ITALY'S first step in Africa are the culmination of an ambition that first manifested itself as far back as 1870. That year an Italian steamship company bought the port of Assab on the Red Sea coast for a little less than $10,000 from Sultan Berehan of Raheida. The Sultan, Berehan, had just been overthrown and Assab was needed as a coaling station for Italian ships.

Great Britain, Egypt and Turkey objected to the purchase, but soon were won over to Italian presence in Africa and in 1882, Italy declared Assab its first African colony. In the next six years, various treaties ceded further sections along the coast to Italy. In 1899 these possessions were united into what is now Eritrea. The name was taken from the Erythraean Mare of the Romans.

In 1934 Eritrea issued a series of eight stamps which illustrate its resources, its people and some of its attractions. The one shown here pictures the minor industry of shark fishing.
